'Clear My Name or I Quit'... Kissinger

SALZBURG, Austria (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger threatened today to resign unless what he called a campaign of "leaks and innuendos" based on his involvement in national security wiretap cases was stopped immediately.

Kissinger, holding a news conference during President Nixon's first stop on his trip to the Mideast, said a campaign against him appeared to be coming from the House Judiciary Committee, which is studying possible presidential impeachment.

Speaking in a hoarse, cracked voice at an inn outside the Schloss Klesheim Palace in which he and the Nixons are staying, Kissinger described what he called "the impugning of my honor" and added:

"If it is not cleared up, I will resign."

"This is a question of my honor and I told the President what I was going to say and he agreed," Kissinger said.

Kissinger suggested that his name could be cleared by an act of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, which heard his original testimony on the background of wiretaps placed on telephones of some of Kissinger's former aids at the White House before he became secretary of state.

Egyptians preparing massive welcome for President Nixon. Story page 24.

The matter of wiretapping Kissinger's aides while he was head of the National Security Council came up when the Senate held confirmation hearings on Kissinger's nomination last year as secretary.

At that time and since, Kissinger has steadfastly denied he had any direct role in the wiretaps and said he had no knowledge of the White House "plumbers" group set up to stop leaks of national security information.

Meanwhile, President Nixon got a report today from Chancellor Bruno Kreisky on the Austrian leader's recent Mideast visit, then turned to completing preparations for his own historic "journey for peace" beginning with a lavish arrival in Cairo Wednesday morning.

Away from the cares of Watergate and the impeachment proceedings at home, Nixon relaxed and recovered from "jet lag" at Klesheim Palace, a baroque, 18th century mansion on the outskirts of Salzburg before starting on his five-nation trip.

Press Secretary Ronald Ziegler said Nixon would hold his first meeting with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat at Qubba Palace in Cairo Wednesday afternoon.

Sadat, an admirer of the President and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, has planned a big welcome complete with a 100,000 cheering Egyptians as partial thanks to Nixon for the United States' crucial role in bringing a cease-fire between his country and Israel.

The trip resulted in extreme security measures, including hundreds of policemen stationed around Klesheim Palace and more stationed on Austria's borders, with special instructions to watch for Arabs trying to enter the country.

Ziegler today defended the President's decision to make the trip against criticism at home, especially from Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., that Nixon should stay home while the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry was going on and inflation is bothering the economy.

"We disagree with Sen. Jackson and I think many senators do," Ziegler said. "I noticed Sen. (Mike) Mansfield's statement wishing the President well. I believe that the majority of the American people believe that Sen. Jackson is expressing a minority point of view."

★ ★ Nixon Stand Roils Judge ★ ★

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today severed the conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman from that of three other defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said President Nixon's refusal to allow Ehrlichman and his lawyers access to the files he needs for his defense "makes it impossible for the court to do its duty" to conduct a fair trial.

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Gesell on Monday that the President still reserved the final say over what materials from Ehrlichman's own files the former domestic aide could use.

"The proposal is unacceptable," Gesell said. "It denies him the right of counsel."

Gesell has said that he, not Nixon, would be the final judge of what material could be admitted as evidence at Ehrlichman's trial.

Gesell had threatened to dismiss the case against Ehrlichman entirely unless Nixon agreed to release the material sought by Ehrlichman for his defense.

Instead he severed Ehrlichman's case and said Ehrlichman would be tried later.

The other three defendants go on trial Monday.

The three who will be tried Monday are G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio Martinez, who were convicted previously in connection with the Watergate break-in.

Ehrlichman Liddy, Barker and Martinez are charged with conspiracy to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, by sending White House agents into Fielding's office.

Ehrlichman is also charged with three counts of lying to a grand jury and one of lying to the FBI.

There was no indication when Ehrlichman will go to trial.

Meanwhile, undaunted by President Nixon's refusal to comply with four previous subpoenas for White House tapes, House Judiciary Committee chairman Peter W. Rodino says the impeachment panel may issue a fifth one this week.

And apparently unfazed by the possibility of contempt of Congress and contempt of court citations, Nixon's lawyers Monday reiterated the executive privilege claim before the House committee and two courts.

But they agreed with Watergate prosecutors in asking the Supreme Court to release secret grand jury documents that named Nixon as a co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up case.

Committee member Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., said he would introduce a resolution in the House today that would put the full body behind the panel's demands for all 98 tapes subpoenaed so far. He said it could lay the basis for a possible contempt order. But Democratic leaders indicated they opposed such a move.

Rodino, after a meeting of committee Democrats Monday night, said Nixon's obstinacy will not affect plans to end the hearings by July 15. He also said the committee may vote on another subpoena this week for tapes related to the ITT and milk investigations.

The committee was set today to hear evidence about the White House "plumbers" unit.

Lawyers for cover-up defendants John N. Mitchell, Gordon C. Strachan, H.R. Haldeman and Ehrlichman argued Monday that U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica should dismiss charges.

Mitchell's and Strachan's lawyers said their clients' testimony before the nationally televised Watergate hearings last summer made it impossible to get a fair trial.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman's lawyers argued on other grounds for dismissal in one of a series of pretrial motions that will be heard this week.

In refusing to turn over 45 tapes to the impeachment committee Monday, despite a previous committee threat his action could be an impeachable offense, Nixon said that compliance could make the presidency henceforth and forevermore subservient" to other branches o government.

County GOP to Abolish City Chairman Position

By LYNN MULVANEY

KINGSTON — A change in the Republican Party structure in Ulster County, which would call for the appointment rather than the election of a city GOP leader, is expected to become official at the June 17 convention of the Ulster County Republican Committee to be held at the George Washington School.

The proposal takes the form of a charter change which would abolish the present elective post of city chairman and create instead a new county vice chairmanship which would carry the title Vice Chairman for City Affairs.

The new vice chairman would be appointed by the County Chairman Albert Spada and serve at his pleasure. Still another post — that of assistant vice chairman for city affairs, would also be established.

It is expected that if the charter change meets with a majority approval of the convention, that the present city chairman, Frank Fabbie, will be appointed by Spada to the new vice chairmanship. Several names are under consideration for assistant vice chairman for city affairs.

The change is being implemented in an attempt to get away from the fairly rapid turnover in chairmen in the City GOP ranks in recent years. Five chairmen have served in the past eight years — Fabbie was preceded by Bernard A. Feeeney Jr., Melvin Mones, Ward Ingalsbe Jr. and John Ray Mayone.

The new vice chairmanship for City Affairs will bring to four the number of vice chairman serving the County GOP Committee.

Others include: Edwin F. Callahan, of Town of Ulster, first vice chairman, Charles Penney of Shawangunk, second vice chairman and Mrs. Sally Brinnier, third vice chairman.

It will be the responsibility of the vice chairman for city affairs to call a special meeting of the city committee for the sole purpose of designating candidates for all public offices from the entire city.

The new vice chairman will serve on the executive committee of the county committee and as such will be entitled to one vote.

Convention business will also include the selection of candidates for Congress in Ulster County's three Districts, State Senate (two districts), Assembly (two districts), sheriff and coroner.

The GOP is expected to name all its incumbents including Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr. (25th Dist.), Congressman Benjamin a Gilman (26th Dist.) and whoever is nominated for the 27th District seat now held by Rep. Howard W. Robison who is not seeking reelection. It is anticipated that Broome County Executive Edwin Crawford is the likely contender for the nomination.

The Republicans are also expected to nominate State Sen. Edwyn E. Mason (48th Dist.), and State Sen. Richard E. Schermerhorn (40th Dist.) as well as Assemblyman H. Clark Bell (101st Dist.) and Assemblyman Emeel Betros (99th Dist.).

It is anticipated that the nod will also go to Sheriff William B. Martin and Coroner Richard Buono.

There are several candidates for sheriff however, Special Investigator Thomas Mayone, former BCI Investigator Charles Teelon and former County Legislator Eugene Corey have all thrown their hats into the ring.

Water Pollution Program

STONE RIDGE — Ulster County Community College has received a $56,000 grant from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency for the design of a two-year curriculum in Water Pollution Monitoring, according to an announcement today by Dr. George B. Erbstein, college president.

Richard B. Glazer, professor of biology at UCCC, will direct the program and use the federal funds to devise the necessary study courses.

The goal of the program is to create a curriculum that will provide trained technicians who will be qualified to monitor municipal and industrial waste water treatment discharges.

The trained technicians are also considered necessary in the implementation of the National Pollution Discharge Elimination System. Under this federal program, the Environmental Protection Agency will issue permits to waste water facilities only after monitoring the discharges.

It is estimated that approximately 7,000 technicians will be needed to monitor waste water treatment installations and eliminate the purchase of ineffective instructional materials by the late 1970's.

Glazer plans to create a two-year curriculum in Water Pollution Monitoring by September, 1975. For the next two yeas, he will use, the grant money to develop core courses, one-year programs, continuing education programs and self-study programs.

The program that he will develop will be intended primarily for two-year colleges throughout the nation. But it will also be made available to four-year colleges and universities that offer special two-year programs.

Glazer, a resident of Tillson, has been at the college for 10 years. He recently developed a BIOTECH program for the American Institue of Biological Sciences.

Dr. Erbstein said he is "pleased" that the Environmental Protection Agency is interested in having the college and Professor Glazer take the leadership in designing the new curriculum.

"I believe that this project is most worthwhile and will not only help our college but will have an impact throughout the nation," he commented.

Erbstein called Glazer "most qualified" to successfully carry out the objectives of the project. "As a division chairman in the biological sciences," said Dr. Erbstein, "he has been an effective leader in the development of a variety of technical programs."

C-H Refund Ordered

ALBANY — Central Hudson Gas and Electric Company has been ordered by the Public Service Commission to refund nearly $1.2 million in fuel adjustment charges.

PSC ruled that the utility billed the amount incorrectly to its customers. The ruling covers the fuel adjustment charges billed to customers between Feb. 12 and May 12.

On June 4, Central Hudson announced its intention to refund the money, but gave no indication that its bills had been in error.

The error involved the storage of 450,000 barrels of residual fuel oil by the utility. The oil was purchased when supplies of residual oil began to become scarce and was placed in dead storage.

Contrary to PSC regulations, Central Hudson, as the price of oil went up, billed customers for additional fuel costs without figuring in the value of the 450,000 barrels purchased at a lower price.

Last Friday, decision was reserved in Ulster County Supreme Court in a suit brought by a group of consumers against Central Hudson demanding the utility eliminate the fuel adjustments charges from customer bills. The charge is about 25 per cent of the average customer's bill.

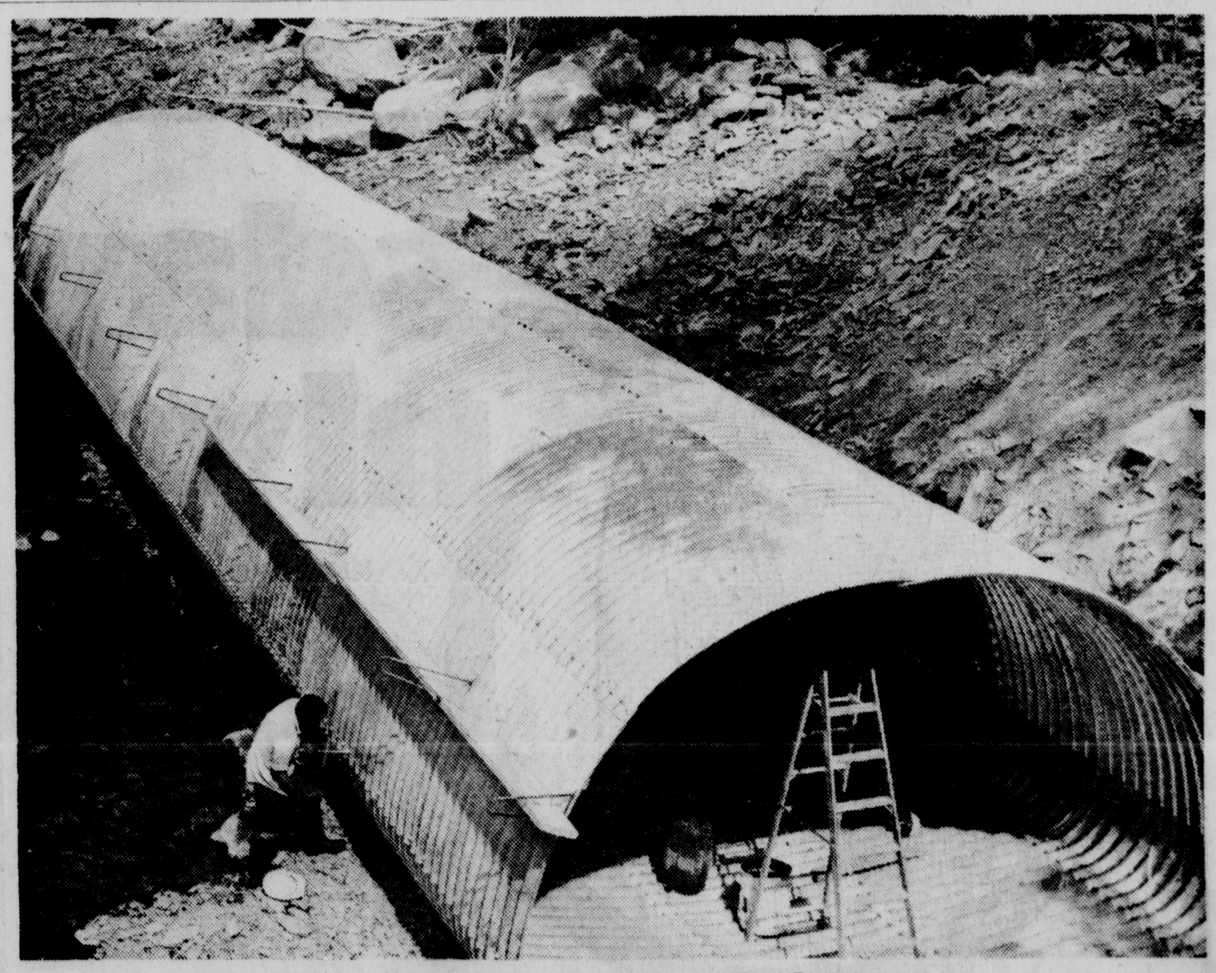

The consumers, led by Mrs. Belle Sundeen, also seek a refund which could amount to several million dollars in fuel adjustment surcharges paid by Mid-Hudson Valley residents since 1972.

The suit was filed by 17 members of the Concerned Consumers of Ulster County. They are seeking a permanent injunction against fuel adjustment charges and recovery of all money paid by Central Hudson customers for such charges. They also seek an injunction prohibiting the utility from disconnecting power to any customers who refuse to pay the additional charges.

The utility claims it does not have the financial resources to pay the higher cost of fuel itself.

City Burglaries on Rise; Police Probe 5 Break-ins

KINGSTON — Cash, drugs, watches, a stamp collection . . . these are among the items which were reported taken in five separate burglaries under investigation today by Kingston detectives.

A quantity of demerol, morphine tablets and other drugs were reported missing at the United Pharmacy, 329 Wall Street, in a burglary discovered Monday. Watches, cigarettes, electric shavers and radios were also missing, according to detectives. An inventory was underway to establish a full list of the missing items.

Detectives said a thief or thieves entered the pharmacy by removing an iron grate from a rear window.

Furniture, including chairs and a dresser, with a total value of $130 were reported taken in a burglary at Smith Avenue Storage, 149 Clinton Avenue, discovered Monday. Detectives said a lock was forced on a overhead door.

Some $345 in cash was said to be missing in a burglary Monday morning at the residence of Mrs. Mary L. Wengert, 232 North Manor Avenue. There the thieves gained entry through a kitchen window.

In what was apparently a daylight burglary, thieves made off with $35 in cash, a stamp collection, a watch, a Kingston High School ring and a strong box containing personal papers from the Kenneth Burt residence, 235 Linderman Avenue, on Monday. The house was entered sometime between 6:50 a.m. and 4:20 p.m. by breaking glass in the front door, detectives said.

An entry at Johnny's Shell station, 40 McEntee Street, was also reported early today. Nothing, however, was repoted missing as the thief was apparently scared off.

WHITA Hits Saugerties School Costs

SAUGERTIES — The "real reason" for a decreased school tax rate in the Town of Saugerties is increased state aid, not the cutting of administrative costs or other cost saving reductions as has previously been contended by according to the president of the Saugerties School Board, the We've Had It Taxpayer's Association of Ulster County (WHITA).

"WHITA contends that the only true attributable factor to the tax cut is the increased state aid," said WHITA president Alice Tipp.

Mrs. Tipp said that while the budget for 1974-75 shows an increase of $160,183.34, state aid will increase $479,734, up 15.52 per cent over the current year.

"A case has hardly been made to impress the State Legislature on further requests for more funds," Mrs. Tipp contended.

"Total spending is up $160,183.34 over this year's $6,246,735.33 to a new total of $7,006,918.76," she said.

"The stage has clearly been set for a local property tax increase next year that will prove disastrous for many of our senior citizens and others on low or fixed incomes," Mrs. Tipp said.

"In the past the Board (of Education) has indicated a compassion for senior citizens and others on fixed incomes. This year it is different. WHITA believes they had an opportunity to do something about it, and instead used every new found dollar to expand without due consideration to our seniors," she said.

Businessmen Want Planning

KINGSTON — The Central Businessmen's Association will meet with members of the Common Council and City Planner Robert Pritchard in what they hope will be the first step in a long-range planning process to update and improve the Central Broadway business district.

Ninth Ward Alderman Philip A. DeCicco attended Monday's meeting of the Central Businessmen, and recommended that the group devise some long range plans and ideas for a Central Broadway facelifting.

"We'd like to do something to make Central Broadway more attractive," sail Sy Blas, president of the organization, "something like what they're doing uptown (the Pike Plan)."

The date for the meeting between city officials and businessmen, said Blas, has not yet been scheduled.

In another matter, the business men discussed the possibility of sponsoring summertime movie shows for children at the Community Theatre. Blas said the theatre is looking for a sponsor for the summertime matinees, and that the businessmen feel they would be doing a community service by participating.

Wilson Selects Caso as Lt. Governor Candidate

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — With their statewide ticket informally set except for comptroller, delegates to the Republican state designating convention met here today to blast Democrats and prepare for the state's first major "post-Watergate" election campaign.

Party leaders, including Gov. Malcolm Wilson, who will carry the GOP gubernatorial banner in the November election, Monday selected Nassau County Executive Ralph Caso, 56, as the party's candidate for lieutenant governor.

Wilson, Caso, U.S. Sen. Jacob Javits, Attorney General Louis J. Lefkowitz and Court of Appeals Associate Judges Harold Stevens and Samuel Rabin are slated to be designated formally Wednesday by the 402 delegates attending the two-day session.

The only blank spot on the ticket as the convention opened was for comptroller. Party officials reportedly had several persons under consideration to run against incumbent Democrat Arthur Levitt, a veteran of 20 years as the state's chief fiscal officer.

Erie County Executive Edward V. Regan, who opposed Levitt in 1970, said he had not been asked to make another run.

"They know better," Regan told a newsman Monday. "Even when my name was bandied about for lieutenant governor I told them I wasn't interested."

Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea has chosen as the keynote speaker for the convention and Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson was selected to welcome the delegates.

Wilson will be seeking his first full term as chief executive after serving 15 years as lieutenant governor to former Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who resigned last Dec. 18.

The Democrats will hold their state designating convention in Niagara Falls Thursday and Friday.

The race among Democratic gubernatorial hopefuls tightened Monday when Queens Borough President Donald Manes announced he was withdrawing in favor of U.S. Rep. Hugh Carey of Brooklyn.

Carey is said by political observers to be trailing Howard Samuels, former head of New York City's Off-Track Betting operation, but is running ahead of the third remaining candidate, Rep. Ogden Reid.

It is expected Samuels and Carey each will get more than 25 per cent of the Democratic Committee votes to put them on the primary election ballot for the Sept. 10 primary.

Although the GOP leaders did not publicly announce any comptroller candidates, sources said they were considering a "non-political" businessman or educator from the upstate area to lend balance and a fresh look to the ticket.

Wilson, in a statement issued by his office, said he would be "pleased" to have Caso as his running mate.

"Ralph Caso would bring to our ticket the caliber of experience in responsible public service that will be the hallmark of our appeal to the voters of the state," Wilson said.

Caso is now serving his second term as county executive and prior to being elected to that post in 1971 was presiding supervisor of the town of Hempstead.

Caso selection was seen by political observers as satisfying a GOP hope to put an Italian-American on the ticket and also as a bid for additional support from Long Island's powerful Republican operation.

In addition to the Republican and Democratic designating conventions, the Liberal and Conservative parties have scheduled meetings to select candidates Saturday. The Conservatives are expected to back Wilson. Sources said the Liberals would be watching the Democratic session to see before deciding whether to endorse the Democrat or put up their own candidate.

Governor Signs Two Energy Problem Bills

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Malcolm Wilson announced Monday that he had approved two bills addressing the state's energy problems.

One measure offers tax relief to private bus companies which provide local transit service. The other expands the State Building Code Council from its present six members to nine. It also directs the council to draft a new energy efficiency code by Dec. 1.

Wilson's proposal to assist private bus companies, many of which operate upstate, was seen as one of several attempts to respond to upstate legislators' claims that the governor was favoring the mass-transit needs of New York City.

The new law entitles all private bus companies offering local transit service a complete refund or credit on state gasoline and diesel motor fuel taxes. Refunds on taxes imposed on parts, equipment and maintenance services will also be granted.

In a statement accompanying the bill, Wilson said, "Carriers are faced with escalating costs at a time when they are under increasing public pressure to maintain fares.

"The tax relief provided in this measure will aid in avoiding further deterioration in the quantity and quality of bus service, fare increases beyond economical levels, and further public takeovers of deficit transit operations."

The State Building Code Council will be expanded to include at least one energy expert recommended by the chairman of the Public Service Commission.

The energy efficiency construction code it is directed to formulate, will be designed to minimize the use of electricity and fossil fuel consumption in new construction.

The bill does not mandate the adoption of the new code, the governor said in a statement, but it insures the state will have the option in 1975 of authorizing the code in response to the energy crisis.

Gov. Wilson also announced on Monday that he had approved measures which will:

—Provide increased opportunity for disadvantaged students to win state Regents college scholarships. Formerly Regents scholarships were allocated only by county. Under the new law, the scholarships will be dispersed to one out of every 40 students who graduated the preceding year from an approved high school.

—Create the Empire State Youth Theater, housed in the Albany Empire State Plaza. The institute will offer visual arts and theatrical training programs for children and educators from throughout the state.

Five Per Cent Reduction in Power Pool

ALBANY, N.Y. (UPI) — Members of the New York Power Pool were ordered to reduce voltage by five per cent for about six hours Monday as much of the state experienced 90 degree temperatures which increased power demands.

The order came a short time after a similar cutback by four of the pool's larger members to help the power needs of near-by states.

The National Weather Service reported above-90 temperatures in many areas of the state Monday afternoon. It was 96 degrees in New York City, 95 at Utica and Poughkeepsie, a record-breaking 94 in Syracuse, 93 in Elmira and 92 in Albany.

The initial reduction was instituted to avoid shortages in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Maryland, a power pool spokesman said.

The spokeman said that shortly after that reduction, the power pool experienced a major loss of power generation when the Indian Point No. 2 nuclear plant in Westchester went out of service.

At the time of the original cutback, the demand for electricity in the state was the highest it has been since last September, he said.

The four firms originally cutting back their service were: Consolidated Edison, Long Island Lighting Co., Niagara Mohawk Power Corp., and Rochester Gas & Electric Co.

In a related move, the Power Authority of the State of New York asked the 42 municipal power and rural cooperatives it supplies to also cutback their voltage by five per cent.

The voltage reduction went into effect as the thermometer climbed into the 90s throughout the Northeast.

A spokesman for Con Ed said the Indian Point No. 2 plant was producing 830 megawatts at the time of its loss.

The facility had been inactive for several weeks for maintenance until returning to service about two weeks ago.

Murder Trial Resumes

LAKE PLEASANT, N.Y. (UPI) — The murder trial of Robert F. Garrow resumed today in Hamilton County Court following opening statements Monday in which the prosecution questioned psychiatric tests of the defendant.

Hamilton County District Attorney William H. Intemann asked the court not to accept psychiatric tests submitted by the defense on the grounds that Garrow did not cooperate with doctors who examined him for the prosecution.

Garrow, a balding mechanic from Syracuse, is charged with the fatal stabbing of a teen-aged camper last summer in the Adirondacks.

Garrow allegedly told prosecution physicians he had amnesia regarding the period when Philip Domblewski, 18, of Schenectady was killed. He supposedly gave psychiatrists for the defense a detailed account of the same period.

Hamilton County Court Judge George W. Marthen reserved decision on the motion, giving Intemann until Tuesday to file a written brief on his contention. Garrow's attorneys were given until Wednesday to reply.

Garrow is alleged to have routed four teen-agers from their campsite, tied them to trees and killed Domblewski before running off when other Adirondack travelers appeared.

Nicholas S. Fiorello, one of Domblewski's campaing companions, identified a knife alleged to be he murder weapon, as Garrow's. He also identified the rifle, with which Garrow is accused of using to threaten the youths.

Fiorello, 23, of Schenectady said Garrow spoke calmly during the episode.

The youth said he was unable to see Domblewski once he was tied to a tree, but heard his friend talking quickly.

"Then I heard a vomiting sound, a really loud sound," Fiorello said. "Garrow stopped talking, but the vomiting sound kept going."

Carol Ann Maklinowski Freeman, another camper who has since married the fourth member of the group, David Freeman, testified that after she worked herself free she ran to Dombleski but he was covered with blood.

In his opening statement, defense attorney Frank H. Armani of Syracuse told the jurors the case would be a matter for their consciences.

He told the panel they must use common sense and make the prosecution prove the defendant guilty beyond a reasonable doubt in considering their verdict.

Garrow was the subject of a manhunt by about 200 law enforcement officers. He eluded the search for 12 days, traveling from Speculator, where the murder occurred, more than 70 miles to Witherbee in Essex County, his boyhood home.

Supreme Court Makes Ruling On Parochial School Children

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court ruled 8 to 1 Monday that parochial school children receiving federal aid to the under-educated are entitled, in general, to services comparable to those in public schools.

But the court declined at least for the moment to decide such specifics as whether public school teachers can be assigned to teach in church schools during regular working hours. It left this issue to local authorities.

Speaking for the majority in a test case from Kansas City, Justice Harry A. Blackmun said it is the role of state and local agencies, not the federal courts, to formulate a suitable plan. The matter therefore is back in the lap of local authorities.

Justice William O. Douglas said in his dissent that the part of the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Education Act, if construed to allow aid to parochial schools either directly or indirectly, is unconstitutional.

"We should say so now, and save the endless hours and efforts which hopeful people will expend in an effort to constitutionalize what is impossible without a constitutional amendment," Douglas said.

He said "the judiciary has been seduced" in its approach to the law, since the constitutional ban on aid to religion bars parochial school financing with public funds.

In other actions today, the Court:

—Rejected 5-3 attempts by Chicano leader Reies Lopez Tijerina to overturn his conviction for assault on a deputy sheriff he originally was charged with kidnaping.

—Agreed to decide whether the Federal Power Commission has unprecedented authority to license nearly all fossil fuel power plants.

—Agreed to decide the constitutionality of a provision in the 1971 federal election campaign law requiring certification that independent political advertising is not paid for with campaign funds.

—Agreed to decide if the Civil Service Commission can exclude aliens from all federal jobs.

Blackmun said state and local school authorities may provide for on-the-premises instruction for parochial school children. But if they do not choose this method, or if it options:

—A plan not using on-premises instruction but still giving comparable services to both public and private schools.

—Elimination of on-premises instruction in public schools and use of a neutral site or a summer program.

—Not participating in the federal program at all.

State officials brought the case to the Supreme Court after the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled that special personnel services must be afforded children attending private schools during school hours if the same services are furnished public school pupils.

Blackmun said the lower court properly refused to involve itself in the First Amendment issue, since no actual order had been entered requiring on-premises instruction in parochial schools.

State authorities had run up against a Missouri law that would have forbidden duplication of public school instruction in parochial schools. The 8th Circuit said the matter is governed by federal law, but Blackmun said Congress did not intend any bars under state constitutions to be superseded.

Congress had the policy of accommodating state law, Blackmun said.

BRUSH UP ON PAINTING — A painting training seminar for young Kingston area youngsters who are taking part in the Rent-A Kid program now in progress for the summer was held recently under the instruction of Henry Breitenbach, manager of Shults Paint Store in Kingston. (L) is Shelly Andersen, Peter Bell and Breitenbach. The Rent-A-Kid project is for 14, 15 and 16 year old teenagers who want to work. Annarose Ingarra is program coordinator and headquarters is at Kingston Boys Club. Anyone with a job that needs doing is urged to call the headquarters to rent-a-kid. (Freeman photo by Carey)

Guilty Plea To Slaying Of Three

BALLSTON SPA, N.Y. (UPI) — A Warren County man has entered a guilty plea in Saratoga County Court to three slayings and also admitted to "premeditated murder" in the death of a Pennsylvania girl.

Harold Gormley, 26, of Queensbury entered the plea in the midst of his trial for killing three men in a South Glens Falls tavern Jan 16.

Gormley, a male nurse, told County Court Judge Loren Brown he wanted to read a four-page statement he had prepared to confess to the crimes. After he asked that sentencing not be postponed, Brown gave him a term of 25-years-to-life in prison on each of the three murder counts, with the terms to be consecutive.

Gormley said that during a hold-up of the Cabaret Lounge in South Glens Falls, he ordered barkeeper John Canale, 24, of South Glens Falls to "put the money from the register in a bag."

Canale and two Albany-area men in the bar, Andrew Gilisco, 39, of Watervliet, and Michael Russo, 41, of Latham, were killed.

In his statement, he said, "I killed them soley for the reason I was afraid they would talk. I ordered them to lie on the floor in front of the bar. Then I shot each of them twice in the head. There was no resistance."

Gormley also told the court, "I plead guilty to murder and armed robbery and also to one count of premediated murder in Pennsylvania. I will sign a waiver of any appeals I might make and accept any decision of the courts."

Gormley was wanted for questioning in the slaying of Melanie Snyder, 18, of Titusville, Pa. Her body was found near Wattsburg, Pa., Jan. 3.

Officials said Gormley graduated from St. Joseph's High School in Titusville in 1965, and Miss Snyder was the daughter of a former high school basketball coach where Gormley had served as the team's student manager.

State police picked him up Feb. 4 following a lengthy investigation of the slayings, which drew wide publicity. On Feb. 25, sheriff's deputies said they found him unconscious in his cell where he had tried to commit suicide with an overdose of a tranquilizer. Deputies said he had been storing up the pills by placing them under his tongue each time they were administered, until he had enough for an overdose.

'Crackpots' Are Sending SLA Letters

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Crackpots and mental cases" are sending letters and other communications signed by the Symbionese Liberation Army which vow to kill the pigs and in one instance allege that Patricia Hearst is dead, a high FBI official said Monday night.

"All the crackpots and mental cases between Canada and Mexico who can hold a pen are drawing seven-headed cobras (the SLA symbol) and writing 'kill the pigs' and 'death to the Fascist insect,'" the official said.

"There has been nothing, with the exception of tape recordings in which Miss Hearst's voice has been identified, that we consider to be genuine in this case.

"All these so-called 'communiques' are a lot of bull, and the more publicity they get the more the crackpots will send."

The FBI man, a key official in the Hearst case, said he would only speak frankly if his name was withheld.

Scores of communications allegedly signed by the SLA have been sent to news media across the country since six SLA members, including the group's leader, died in the May 17 shootout in Los Angeles.

The latest "communique" was received Monday by a local radio station and claimed "our beloved Tania (Miss Hearst's SLA name) is dead" and said she was "interred with full military honors." There were no details and no authentication as in previous SLA messages.

HEART-TO-HEART

NEWS FROM YOUR MID-HUDSON HEART ASSOCIATION

VOLUME II ISSUE 5 JUNE 1974

75 LUCAS AVE., KINGSTON, N. Y. 12401—914-338-8517

Executive Director: MRS. WILLIAM D. BRINNER III (Sally)

Serving Columbia, Greene, Ulster Counties

Public Relations and Fund Raising Director: ELIZABETH ARELLA

At Left:
Speakers for the three nursing workshops were: Herbert Marx, M.D., Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine at Columbia and attending physician in the Department of Medicine at Mary Imogene Bassett Hospital in Cooperstown, New York who spoke on "Elecrical Hazards in the Coronary Care Unit." Edmund H. Reppert, M.D., Director of Medical Education at Kingston Hospital who covered "The Role of Auscultation in the Coronary Unit"; and Miss Christina Haas, R.N., M.A., from the New York Hospital, who spoke on "Heart Attacks and Patient Education." Welcoming them (right) is Mrs. Joan Bilyou, R.N., Ellenville Hospital, a member of the Heart Association's Nursing Committee.

At Right:
Heart dignitaries at Columbia County Ball were Sally Brinnier, Executive Director; Edward P. Ginouves, M.D., Past-President; Mrs. Harold Porpa, Board Member and Ball Chairman, and Brendon Alexander, Ulster County Vice President of the Board of Directors.

MID-HUDSON HEART COMMUNITY PROGRAMS AND ACTIVITIES

MULTI-SCREENING TO START IN SEPTEMBER

In cooperation with IBM, the Mid-Hudson Heart Association will begin its first multi-screening for the general public this fall. People who are most susceptible to heart attack and blood vessel diseases are males between the ages of 35 through 60. Any adult is welcome to participate, the aim being to provide preventive screening for persons who do not have emergency facilities nearby. The program which will provide electrocardiogram, blood pressure and several blood tests, will begin after Labor Day for three weeks in Ulster, the first two weeks in October in Columbia County, and the last two weeks in October in Greene. Watch your newspaper for dates and locations.

FLEA MARKETS

Your Heart Association, with the help of many faithful volunteers, has taken booths at the recent Lion's Expo in Kingston, and the flea markets conducted by the Catskill Citizen's Hose Co. and Kingston Plaza Merchant's Association. These booths are a way of reaching people who want to ask questions about Heart, and are always paid for by donations from those attending. Keep Heart in mind next time you have some good things to dispose of. We have storage space so please feel free to leave them any time.

MEMBERSHIP TIME

Any interested person may apply for membership in the Mid-Hudson Heart Association. The term extends from July 1, 1974 to June 30, 1975. Membership makes you a voting member, not only of the Mid-Hudson chapter, but also of the New York State Heart Assembly and the American Heart Association. From your ranks you will nominate and elect the Board of Directors who determine the program of work and the expenditure of Heart funds for the coming year. You will also receive appropriate publications from the Association and will be invited to serve you on various committees from time to time. Please contact the office before July 1 if you wish to apply. Membership is $2.00 per person per year.

NURSES TEACHING DAY WELL REPRESENTED

103 Nurses from the five hospitals in our three counties attended the all-day workshop on Coronary Care conducted at Kingston's Holiday Inn on April 24, 1974. Speakers for the three concurrent workshops were: Herbert Marx, M.D., Associate Professor of Clinical Medicine at Columbia, Edmund H. Reppert, M.D., Director of Medical Education at Kingston Hospital, and Miss Christina Haas, R.N., M.A., from the New York Hospital. The favorable comments of all who attended were most gratifying to the Heart Association's Nursing Committee members who planned the event. They were: Mrs. Joan Bilyou, R.N., Ellenville Hospital; Mrs. Catherine Radlinski, R.N., Greene County Memorial Hospital; Mrs. John Romanchuk, R.N., Columbia Memorial Hospital; Mrs. Joan Cavagnaro, R.N., The Kingston Hospital; and Mrs. Margaret Carroll, R.N., Benedictine Hospital. This is another instance of your Heart Association funds providing professional education by obtaining well-known medical authorities to develop local Nursing expertise in their particular field of Heart.

FOURTH ANNUAL ANTIQUE SHOW DRAWS UNUSUAL EXHIBITS AND SERIOUS BUYERS

Mrs. John Spindler, Chairman of the Fourth Annual Antique Show for Heart held in Woodstock, presented a check for $737 to the Heart Office this month. Dealers have come to look forward to this show, because the Woodstock area tends to draw serious collectors, and they register far in advance to be sure of space. Working with Mrs. Spindler were Girl Scout Troops and other dedicated Friends of Heart. You missed a good show if you didn't attend.

COLUMBIA COUNTY BALL ENJOYED BY ALL

The only county-wide dinner-dance held for Heart this year was the Columbia County Ball, for the fourth year at Kozel's in Ghent. Mrs. Harold Porpa, Chairman of the event, deserves our thanks for conducting a lovely and profitable affair. Proceeds will be presented at the last Board meeting of the year, and will exceed $1,000.

FINAL HEART BOARD MEETING OF THE YEAR

The last Board of Director's meeting for the 1973-74 fiscal year will be held on June 13, 8:00 P.M. at Columbia Memorial Hospital. The Campaign Report, Program of Work and the Nominating Committee will be approved for presentation at the Association's Annual Meeting to be held in October.

Save the Whales

The Soviet Union and Japan have show wholesale disregard to pleas from around the world to stop their slaughter of the whale population.

These two countries have been unresponsive to international opinion and the warnings of scientists that the whale population is in danger of becoming extinct.

Several conservation groups in the United States have begun a boycott campaign, and a crusade was launched by children from throughout the world in an effort to save the mighty whale from extinction.

Japan and the Soviet Union account for nearly all the whale slaughter in international waters.

The 1972 United Nations Environmental Conference in Stockholm called for a 10-year moratorium on whaling. The vote was 53 to 0. The International Whaling Commission approved lower quotas on whales after commission scientists warned that existing whale populations were declining sharply from over-killing. But Japan and the Soviet Union, both members of the IWC, announced they would defy the lower quotas. The two countries also ignored the moratorium.

In response to this defiance American conservation and animal welfare groups have joined, to call for a boycott of Japanese and Soviet goods "until the whale slaughter is stopped."

The United States has banned commercial whaling and the importation of any whale products. The U. S. government, which has placed all eight of the great whales on the Endangered Species List, is leading the international appeal to save the whale.

Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was highly critical of the unwillingness of Japan and the Soviet Union to go along with recommendations of the International Whaling Commission. Dr. Kissinger said there is no sense in having a commission if its decision can simply be ignored.

It is important to point out that there is no real need for whale products in the world economy. The more than 30,000 whales killed by the Japanese and Russians last year ended up as pet food, transmission oil and fertilizer. The Japanese claim that they need whale meat for food. Yet whale meat represents less than one per cent of their protein diet.

If the whaling industry is so important to Japan and Russia, it is difficult to understand why they refuse to join other nations in an effort to protect it from extinction by over kill.

Indicator of Death

For generations it was thought axiomatic that a human being could not be considered dead until the heart had stopped. This was the crucial test.

In recent times there has been a growing consensus in the medical profession that true death is not signaled by heart stoppage but by "irreversible cessation of brain function." The words are from a ruling by Superior Judge William J. Hayes in a landmark case tried at Oakland, Calif. Though the ruling is likely to be appealed, it is of historic importance because it rejects the traditional view and instead affirms the view now predominant among doctors.

The trial of Andrew D. Lyons, charged with murder in the shooting of Samuel M. Allen Jr., had attracted nationwide interest. Defense counsel argued that Allen's death was caused, not by the gunshot wound in his head, but by removal of his heart for a transplant two days after the shooting. Judge Hayes declined to accept this contention, relying on expert testimony for the conclusion that the "irreversible cessation of brain function" prior to the heart transplant was the crucial indicator. The point is not settled, but we are on the way toward resolution of a fascinating and important legal question.

Congratulations, Julie Ann

There is something reassuring about the annual recurrence of the National Spelling Bee. The folksy, old-fashioned aura of this contest among bright youngsters from all over the country fosters the impression of national stability despite all our present troubles and soul-searching.

Julie Ann Junkin's triumph this year again underscored a point often made in these spelldowns. Having successfully spelled "mantelletta," the nemesis of the runnerup, she went on to victory with "a stab at hydrophyte." It was a word she had not encountered, but she got it right, she said, because of her study of pronounciation. That is the real key. No one can know how to spell all words, but when the dictionary's not handy a knowledge of how words are formed often does the trick. Thank you, Julie Ann, for the reminder —and congratulations!

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Nixon's Finances Lightly Probed

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — At least five separate federal investigations have been conducted into President Nixon's personal finances. Yet no goverment agent has had the audacity to make a check-by-check, deposit-by-deposit examination of the President's personal bank accounts.

Not even the House impeachment investigators, who are supposed to be doing a detailed study of the President's financial dealings, have requested access to the bank records.

Congressional sleuths and Internal Revenue agents have conducted exhaustive investigations of his financial transactions, including his Clemente and Key Biscayne estates.

But apparently, the government gumshoes still hold the President too much in awe to subject him to the same kind of intensive scrutiny that other citizens have endured.

KREMLIN OBSTRUCTION: Secret intelligence reports indicate that the Kremlin was mightily upset over Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's success in negotiating a Syrian-Israeli truce.

Contrary to press accounts, the intelligence reports declare that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko was dispatched to Damascus not to aid in the negotiations but to obstruct them.

This coincides with a hardening of the Kremlin's attitude toward the United States. Soviet leaders have expressed their displeasure privately over the failure of Congress to ratify trade concessions. They have dropped dark remarks about the President's failure to make good his promises.

Perhaps the Soviets are merely bolstering their bargaining position on the eve of the Moscow summit meeting. But it is beginning to look as if the President will have to make substantial concessions to bring home an agreement, which he desparately needs to restore public confidence in his leadership.

BRASS RING: The front pages have been exploding with headlines about the villains in the drama of government. But there have been heroes, too, whose names have attracted less attention. Today we award the brass ring, good for a free ride on the Washington Merry-Go-Round, to three of those heroes.

STANLEY SPORKIN stood tall among those caught in the spotlight of the Robert Vesco case. For a $200,000 cash contribution delivered in a black attache case, Vesco tried to stop the securities and Exchange Commission from investigating his financial empire.

Two former cabinet officers, Attorney General John Mitchell and Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans, were acquitted of bribery. But the testimony was clear that they tried to help Vesco.

The more political pressure that was brought on Sporkin, howeve,r the harder he pressed the case against Vesco. Sporkin is known around the SEC as a man who hates corruption, who can't be pressured, who puts the public interest ahead of all else.

RICHARD SPRAGUE, an assistant district attorney in Philadelphia, wouldn't rest after the brutal murder of mine workers champion Joseph Yablonski, his wife and daughter, until the man who ordered it was convicted. In time, the dogged Sprague nailed former mine workers boss Tony Boyle for masterminding the murder.

Of more than 70 homicide cases Sprague has brought to trial, he has lost only one, which was reduced to a lesser charge. Yet Sprague has worked equally hard, when his cases have been weak, to prove the innocence of men he was supposed to prosecute. Associates describe Sprague as "a man with an absolute sense of public duty."

SEYMOUR GLANZER probably more than any single individual deserves credit for breaking the Watergate case. Those familiar with the work of the original Watergate prosecutors agree that Glanzer usually asked the sharpest questions.

The veteran trial lawyer John Wilson, in reviewing for the President the case against his clients H. R. Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, feared Glanzer the most. Wilson called him "a fire-eating prosecutor."

Yet, surprisingly, Glanzer was also the loudest in upholding the rights of the accused. Associates say he agonizes over the frailties in the judicial system and always puts justice ahead of convictions.

WASHINGTON WHIRL: We reported on March 7 that all but four of the 23 Watergate grand jurors wanted "to hold President Nixon accountable" for the Watergate cover-up. This secret, 19-to-0 vote, with the four absent, made headlines last week . . . Clinton Harris, a racing boat driver who named his boat the Miss U.S. Watergate, recently tested it on the murky waters of the Potomac. While he was streaking across the surface, the bottom suddenly, unaccountably fell out from underneath him. The boat went to the bottom . . . A recent public opinion poll, asking voters who they selected in the 1972 presidential election, showed that Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., should have carried both California and Indiana. In the actual election, of course, he lost both states by wide margins.

Bugging Kissinger

By WILLIAM F. BUCKLEY Jr.

The other day I turned on the television and was accosted by David Halberstam referring to Henry Kissinger as "that bugger." Mr. Halberstam lives in a glass house, one observes parenthetically. After all, what is obnoxious about bugging is the violation of privacy. And Mr. Halberstam's most famous book consists very substantially in violations of privacy. If A tells B something in confidence, and B tells it to Halberstam who publishes it, that is different from Halberstam bugging a conversation between A and B, but not so very much different, it seems to me, as to justify homilies by Halberstam at the expense of buggers.

They are really after Kissinger these days on the matter of did he or did he not initiate the bugging of some of his subordinates, or indeed of some members of the press, during the 1969-1971 period, and it is useful to consider the arguments and their progressive derailment at the hands of Mr. Kissinger's most vehement critics.

1) When the headlines report triumphantly that "No Security Information/Garnered By Wiretaps" really nothing very much is proved. It is not proved that the wiretaps should not have been installed. To say, "No Enemy Planes/Detected by DOD Radar," is not an argument for disestablishing the DEW Line network. All it means is that the 13 government officials and four newsmen who were wiretapped did not, over the wiretapped telephone, discuss the national security secrets the Executive was seeking to protect. It does not even mean, by the way, that the gentlemen in question were conclusively innocent. All it means is that they were not caught. We all know that one does not need to use one's private telephone for the purpose of communicating government secrets.

2) Mr. Kissinger was asked by Senator Fulbright, during the hearings on Kissinger's appointment as Secretary of State, a question I remember at the time thinking of as highly indelicate. It was the question: Did Kissinger himself initiate a wiretap of any single individual? Mr. Kissinger replied in the negative, and, when pressed, said only that he had acquiesced in the general notion that surveillance of some sort was proposed under the circumstances.

The reason I thought Senator Fulbright's question indelicate, as also the questions of those who are now tormenting Mr. Kissinger on the point, is this. If the general principle is established that the Executive is entitled to guard the secrecy of its innermost deliberations — whether, for instance, to tilt towards India or towards Pakistan; what fallback position we are willing to take with the Russians at Helsinki, that kind of thing — then it follows that if the secrets are leaking, it is necessary to do something to stop the leak. (Who says A must say B.)

Now the cleanest way to proceed is by category, not by character reference. If you call in the FBI and give them the assignment, you ought not to say: "Please tap the telephones of all of the loose talkers who are privy to the minutes of the National Security Council." It is more proper to say: "Tap the telephones of everyone privy to the minutes of the National Security Council." That way you are not saying something invidious about a particular person, such as that Joe is known to run off a bit about intimate matters when he has too much to drink, or whatever.

If Mr. Kissinger was pressed to give the names of one or more people whom he had observed to be a little loose-mouthed, loyalty would require that he not disclose this publicly. Because, for one thing, to be a little loose-mouthed is not necessarily a critical disqualification. No one is more indiscreet than Winston Churchill was — with the possible exception of Henry Kissinger. And both are great statesmen.

And finally, 3) I return to the point of the "bonded bugger." No decent government official should permit himself to look at the logs of telephone conversations except insofar as they deal with government secrets. These excerpts, if they occur at all, should be pulled out of the telephone logs by an anonymous and highly trusted civil servant pledged with priestly gravity to guard the confidentiality of conversations extrinsic to the point in question. These logs should be instantly burned, and the bonded bugger protected by law against any questioning about them.

Why are these elementary subtleties escaping the attention of the refined inquisitors of the Nixon administration? Is it because they are becoming primarily inquisitors, and only secondarily men of refinement?

BERRY'S WORLD

"It looks to me, Jerry, as though you're rushing your backswing AND running for president!"

Nicholas Von Hoffman:

Juror's Time Wasted and Abused

WASHINGTON — May every judge in the country see the cartoon. It's an old one by Chon Day that shows the foreman of the jury looking at the robed man on the bench and saying, "We find the defendant guilty and recommend that he be sentenced to jury duty."

The cartoon is reprinted in a new document put out by the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, and since as many as two million of us must serve as jurors every year, "A Guide to Juror Usage" is as much of interest to lay people as to the professionals who haphazardly run the law courts. The guide is a gentle adjuration to judges, not a study, but after reading it you can see why so many people who've gone through the jury experiences wonder why they should have to take this kind of punishment.

The minuscule jury fees, the inconvenience, the financial loss and the aggravated frustration cause many people to hide from the courts by failing to register to vote. They will do anything to avoid getting themselves trapped into a month of waiting in the fly-specked rooms with the sagging furniture that the courts reserve for innocent jurors. Yet neither rude bailiffs nor suffering days in unair-conditioned rooms, while judges and murderers equally enjoy refrigeration, bother most people as much as the colossal waste of their time.

The Law Enforcement Administration figures that in a typical court about 25 per cent more jurors are called than are needed. Their only function is to come and sit and then go away, often at great expense to themselves Even further juror time could be saved if the courts reorganized their work and put it on a rational basis.

The Law Enforcement data suggests most courts do most of their work on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays, thus permitting long weekends which are doubtless not give over to golf, but to juridical reflection and the pursuit of obscure precedents in ancient law books. Typically, however, the same number of jurors are summoned on the slow days as on the busy ones.

"Jurors are forced to wait in the jury lounge through the entire afternoon even if their chance of being called for a voir dire is negligible," says the report, which adds that "another frequent abuse is to call in all jurors to pick up their checks on the last day of the week, even though experience shows less than one-fifth of them (the jurors) will be used that day."

As things are done now in many courts, hundreds of prospective jurors are brought in at once because of the habit of starting all trials at the same time of the morning. The worst of it is that this peak load period only lasts for about an hour, but the unwanted jurors who have been assembled are left to sit; the result is that the average juror spends about 37 per cent of his time in the courthouse without doing anything remotely connected with the judicial process.

None of this need be. Statistics exist which show how many jurors are required for various kinds of trials, so that calling unnecessary jurors is unjustifiable. If judges staggered the times when they began their trials, and if all the out-of-the-sight-of-the-jury arguing about motions and conferring and negotiating were done in time periods when the jury wasn't scheduled to be around, it is estimated that it would result in halving the amount of wasted waiting time that jurors put in.

Those savings in money, time and convenience can be effected at no sacrifice to a litigant's rights nor any cost to the public. It would mean, however, the end to games lawyers and judges play about whose courtroom a case is assigned to, since a continuous flow of cases would not allow shopping around for a favorable judge.

These minor, costless adjustments — that could save jurors' time and make people feel they are contributing something when they do their jury duty — are being instituted in some courts, just as some courts are run by courteous judges sensitive to other people's needs.

Yet in many ways our law courts are 18th-century institutions in attitude and behavior. It's a fine, old tradition of respect to call somebody "your honor" as long as the title doesn't go to his honor's head. It has gone to his head when his honor is so habitually inconsiderate that he inconveniences hundreds and hundreds of people so that he can run his court as his predecessors did in 1750. Wainscoting is lovely for the courtroom walls, but not inside the judge's head.

MEMBERSHIP AGREEMENT — Herman Geisler, seated, manager of administration, IBM Kingston/Poughkeepsie Manufacturing presents Blood Bank President Arthur Chipp with blood bank membership agreement for IBM Kingston employes and their families. Looking on are IBM managing physician, Dr. Frederic Holcomb Jr., standing left and Ulster County Blood Bank Executive Director Wilfred Springer, right.

Blood Bank Nears 13,000 As IBM Doubles Enrollment

KINGSTON — Membership in the Ulster County Blood Bank has virtually doubled with the announcement that IBM Kingston employes and their dependents have been ernolled as members. Officials estimate enrollment at 12,800 persons.

The joint announcement was made by Herman R. Geisler, manager of administration, IBM Kingston-Poughkeepsie; Arthur Chipp, Blood Bank president and Wilfred Springer, executive director of the bank.

Chipp also announced the enrollment of High Falls Volunteer Fire Department in a group plan.

Regarding IBM, Chipp said, "we are extremely pleased to have the largest employer in Ulster County join the blood bank; IBM employees have always comprised the largest single donor pool in the area. Their addition to our donor list assures the Ulster County Blood Bank's capability to provide a steady flow of fresh blood to meet the needs of our local hospitals and decreases the frequency of requests for donations from individual members."

Geisler indicated that after communication with the Ulster County Blood Bank over an extended period it became appropriate for IBM to join other industries in the county by enrolling its employee group as members. "We have been represented on the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Blood Bank by our Managing Physician, Dr. Fred Holcomb, Jr.," said Gisler, "and Dr. Holcomb has been an enthusiastic supporter of this endeavor.

Although our affiliation with the Ulster County Blood Bank is somewhat unqiue insofar as IBM blood donor programs in general is concerned, we are convinced that this is the direction we should go, and we feel certain that our employees will continue to support the Blood Bank and the community in the same manner that they have in the past." A completely new, updated volunteer blood donor list is being compiled at the present time and it is anticipated that the IBM employees will begin contributing to the Ulster County Blood Bank very shortly.

In announcing the recent enrollment of the High Falls Volunteer Fire Department, Chipp said, "this group has established a 'first' in that they donated more than 20 pints of blood before enrollment of members was completed.

"Not only did they donate for their own membership, but during the drawing for the Senior Citizens Club of High Falls, Stone Ridge and Marbletown which was sponsored by the High Falls Civic Association, due to an exceptionally high number of rejections because of colds, eight members of the HFFS helped meet the quota that night." In complimenting Mr. Robert Gerdes, president of the HFFD, Chipp noted that "it is very encouraging to us promotiong the blood program throughout Ulster County, to see this high degree of community responsibility and initiative."

Four Escapees Caught

SANGERFIELD, N.Y. (UPI) — Four escapees from the Camp Pharsalia youth rehabilitation facility in Chenango County were recaptured late Monday night at a state police roadblock near this Oneida County community.

The four were identified as Anthony Behlog, 20, Robert Carter, 19, J.B. Cosme, 21, and Gary Murphy, 18.

They had escaped from the camp near South Plymouth Saturday night and were the object of an intensive search in dense woods. Bloodhounds, a helicopter and state police and conservation officers on foot took part in the manhunt.

When caught at the Route 12 roadblock, troopers said, the four were in a stolen truck. They surrendered without incident.

Authorities said the four would be sent to the Elmira Reception Center, instead of being returned to the minimum security camp.

Tab Shienvold For 2nd Term

KINGSTON — By unanimous vote of the commissioners, Kingston Water Board President Jack Shienvold of 105 Lounsbury Place was re-elected to a second term at the Board's annual meeting June 6.

Shienvold is owner and operator of the Broadway Sav-on Store in Kingston.

Also reelected by the board was Commissioner Frank C. Sass, who will serve as secretary to the Board.

New Commissioner Chester A. Baltz was welcomed by the Board at the meeting. Baltz was appointed May 31 to serve a five-year term.

Boy Scouts Face Charges Of Padding Membership

CHICAGO (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America faces charges by some paid staff members that it padded membership rolls and possibly cheated to gain additional federal money.

"If we were in the business of covering it up, it could be the Watergate of the Boy Scouts," responds Alden G. Barber, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

"Some of our people cheat—quite frankly" on membership rolls, Barber added. "While we always felt that scouting should expand and grow, we never condoned or encouraged less than ethical practices or conduct."

But Barber said Monday he hadn't heard of possible cheating to gain federal funds until a two-part series that began Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

The problem apparently lies in the $65 million "Boypower 76" recruitment campaign that began in 1968 to add two million boys to scouting ranks by 1976. The program, designed to push total Scout membership to six million, is nearly two years behind schedule.

Barber said some staff members apparently created fictitious members and troops to reach membership quotas.

He said the organization has known about the abuses since August and that national Boy Scout headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., has investigated 10 local councils. He said disciplinary actions are expected shortly in three cities. He declined to name them.

Barber said the number of phantom scouts isn't known but that the cheating seems confined mainly to the professional organization.

The Tribune said additional federal money was obtained through the padding procedures.

The Tribune reported that some staff members said difficulties seem particularly critical in Chicago, home of the Boy Scouts' largest council. Some Scout excutives estimated that only about 25 to 50 per cent of the city's 87,000 registered Scouts actually exist.

Under the Model Cities program in which the federal government pays the dues of inner-city blacks and Latin Americans, the Chicago council received $341,000 in federal funds during the last four years for more than 40,000 poor youngsters.

Joseph J. Klein, executive head of the Chicago area council, said the charges would be investigated but added: "Our contracts with government agencies have been audited annually, approved and refunded for six years. I doubt that if anything was drastically wrong, we would have been refinanced."

Six Suburban Store Closings By Klein's

NEW YORK (AP) — S. Klein, the discount department store chain, was reported today to be planning to close six suburban stores.

Officials of both the store and the parent McCrory Corp. refused comment, or were unavailable.

Both the New York Times and the Daily News said the stores will be closed because they are losing money. Klein's was said to have lost $9.6 million last year on its 19 stores in New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

The stores to be closed were said to be in Commack, West Hempstead and Yonkers, N.Y., plus three in New Jersey.

Both the Times and the News quoted industry sources as saying that Klein's problem—losses in the suburbs and profits or smaller losses in the city—ran counter to industry trends.

They noted that Klein's new suburban stores were unusually large—up to 300,000 square feet.

Neither Kenneth Gray, president of Klein's, nor Stanley Kunsberg, president of McCrory's, was available for comment.

An inquiry to Klein's public relations department was met with the response to call back in a week.

States Getting 90 Per Cent Of June '72 Fuel Supply

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office is allocating to each state for this month at least 90 per cent of its June 1972 gasoline supply, adjusted for growth.

Administrator John C. Sawhill said Monday the FEO decided on this over-all allocation level—requiring a drawdown of about 4.4 million barrels of gasoline from inventories —to help ensure there would be enough gasoline for the vacation months of July and August.

He said the June gasoline supply would amount to some 9.3 billion gallons, or 311.4 million gallons a day, 4.3 per cent higher than the average daily supply in May.

On the basis of average daily supply, Hawaii, Indiana, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Ohio are to have less gasoline in June than they had in May.

Arkansas, Louisiana and Pennsylvania this month will have daily gasoline supplies about equal to May's, while all other states were assigned increased per-day supplies.

Alaska, Colorado, Idaho, Kansas, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, North Dakota, New Hampshire, New Mexico, Nevada, South Dakota, Texas and Wyoming are to get increases in daily gasoline supply of more than 10 per cent over May.

Suit Filed On Storm King Construction

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The state attorney general's office filed a suit today in State Supreme Court that would halt the construction of the controversial Storm King Mountain power plant in Orange County.

The suit was filed against both the state Public Service Commission and Consolidated Edison, said Philip Weinberg, assistant attorney general in charge of environmental protection.

The suit seeks a reversal of the PSC's decision not to allow the attorney general's office to cross-examine Con Ed's witnesses on the need for the power plant or to allow the attorney general's office to "put in our own testimony," he said.

"It's really a suit to reverse the PSC decision not to consider the alternatives to Storm King," Weinberg said, although the suit also asks for construction to be halted until the court rules on the suit.

"We're not saying flatly at this point that it (the power plant) shouldn't be built. We're simply saying there are responsible people saying it would cause air pollution, there are cheaper alternatives, et cetera," Weinberg said.

Con Ed has applied to the PSC for a $695 million rate increase, about $14 million of which would be initial construction costs for Storm King, he said. The total cost of the power plant has been put at $720 million.

The State Supreme Court will hear the case July 12, Weinberg said.

Mobiles Move

Mobile home manufacturers reported a gain of one percent in 1973, compared to 1972. Despite a sharp decline near year-end, the mobiles makers totted up shipments of 579,960 living units.

3 Plead Guilty In County Court

KINGSTON — Three Wawarsing men, who could have faced up to 15 years in prison for conviction on a second degree burglary charge, pleaded guilty to reduced charges in Ulster County Court today.

Frederick Kellerhouse, Richard Dupont and Manuel Rivera were charged with stealing $90 in cash and a quantity of prescription drugs from an Ellenville woman on Nov. 13, 1973.

Dupont, represented in court by Attorney William D. Pretsch, pleaded guilty to a reduced charge of third degree burglary, a Class C felony. Sentencing was set for August 14; he remains free on bail.

Kellerhouse and Rivera pleaded guilty to third degree attempted burglary, a Class E felony. They will be sentenced June 26. Both were remanded to the Ulster County Jail.

Kellerhouse was represented by Alfred B. Mainetti; Rivera's attorney was Karen Peters.

Judge Raymond J. Mino presided. Jury selection in the scheduled trial of the three men began Monday.

Kingston RENT-A-KID Program

RENT-A-KID is one unique solution to the widespread problem of teenage unemployment during the summer months. It is designed to tap the casual labor demand of the homeowner by establishing contacts with teenagers who need work and who are enrolled in the program.

RENT-A-KID headquarters at the Kingston Boys' Club matches teenagers' interest in performing tasks such as yard work, cleaning, baby sitting, with those people who need the work done. Arrangements (including recommended wages between $1.00 and $1.85 an hour) are worked out between the homeowner and teenager.

For additional information, contact Annarose Ingarra at the Kingston Boys' Club on 338-8666.

Record Price For Snuff Box

LONDON (UPI) — Queen Frederika, queen mother of Greece, sold a snuff box for a world record price of $206,400 Monday night, an auction house spokesman said today.

A Swiss dealer paid the money for an 18th century German snuffbox, made of gold heavily encrusted with diamonds and precious stones.

The previous world record price for a snuffbox was $132,700, set in Paris in 1971, said the spokesman for Sotheby's auction house where Monday night's sale was held.

Simon Wants Owning Gold Ban Removed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said today he hopes it will be possible for Americans to own gold before the end of this year.

Simon told a House Banking and Currency subcommittee that he favors allowing Americans to own gold which now is prohibited.

President Nixon has authority from Congress to remove the ban at any time and Simon said he hopes this will be possible "before the end of the year unless there are damaging developments."

Simon appeared before the House subcommittee, which is considering U.S. contributions to the International Development Association. The association makes interest-free development loans to the world's poorest countries.

The Senate already has approved an appropriation, but with a stipulation that Americans should be free to own gold effective Sept. 1.

The House subcommittee, which previously turned down the IDA bill, also is considering setting a gold owning date as a condition for passage of the bill, say sources.

Manslaughter Plea Entered In County Court

KINGSTON — The murder trial of 21-year-old William Dueno ended abruptly today—even before it had actually gotten off the ground—as the man accused of strangling a 37-year-old Bronx woman last August in the Town of Plattekill entered a plea of guilty to first degree manslaughter in Ulster County Court.

The selection of two alternate jurors was slated for today, to be followed by opening statements by the prosecution and defense.

But defense attorney Robert Ricken told the court his client wished to enter a plea. First Assistant District Attorney Ellen G. Donovan agreed to the plea because of the "element of intoxication and passion involved."

Dueno, who allegedly strangled Consuelo Norma Reyes last August near the Villa Galicia, a resort the two were visiting with others, faces a maximum sentence of 25 years.

Dueno asked to address the court concerning what had happened. He said he and Mrs. Reyes had been drinking at the resort, and that after having intercourse, an argument ensued. He admitted to kicking her and that he saw she was unconscious. "I was drunk; she was drunk. I didn't know exactly what I was doing," he said.

Miss Donovan said following the proceedings that she felt the jury might have come in with a manslaughter verdict if the trial had been completed. She credited BCI investigator Clarence T. Searles for his assistance in preparing the case.

Dueno was arrested last August in New York City the day after Mrs. Reyes body was discovered in a wooded area near the resort.

West Point's Gen. Berry . . . 'The Complete Soldier'

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky. (AP) — A book about the U.S. Military Academy at West Point, N.Y., sparked 10th-grader Sydney B. Berry's interest in a military career in 1940.

And now Berry, one of the Army's youngest generals at 48, has been named superintendent at West Point.

In the intervening years, Berry has become a rugged and complete soldier, experienced as an infantryman on the front lines of Korea and Vietnam, trained as a Ranger in swamps and mountains - "the toughest training I ever had" - and at home in a tank, helicopter or parachute.

Berry says he was undecided as a boy growing up in Hattiesburg, Miss., whether to become a military man or a lawyer and politician.

His father, an attorney, had been a private in World War I and Berry recalls seeing him wear a 1918 Army overcoat to and from his office during the Depression.

"It was the only overcoat he had, I learned later," Berry says, but adds that it wasn't the overcoat that turned him toward the military.

In ninth grade he wrote his congressman asking for a West Point academy appointment when he finished high school, and as a high school sophomore he read the book about West Point which, he says, "made the difference."

When he graduated from high school, Berry tried to enlist in the Army Air Corps, Navy and Marine Corps but was rejected because of a minor vision impairment.

He had started college at the University of Mississippi when his congressman wrote and told him he was a second alternate for an academy appointment.

Berry's friends were going off to World War II by that time and he wanted to join them. When he got the congressman's letter he hitchhiked home to Hattiesburg to get his father's advice on whether to enlist and try for combat duty or wait for the possible West Point appointment.

"He told me, 'Son, there never has been a West Point class that has not taken part in one of our country's wars. Anyway this one probably will last until you get to it through West Point.' "

Berry waited for the appointment, received it against long odds and entered the academy in July 1944.

After his graduation in 1948 his wish for combat was fulfilled, with 12 months in Korean fighting and later 31 months in the Vietnam conflict.

In the 1950s he joined the 4th Armored Division in Europe, learned to drive a tank and man its guns, and became an armored infantry battalion commander. In 1957 as a 31-year-old major, Berry took his ranger training.

In the early 60s as a lieutenant colonel, he was military assistant to Defense Secretary Robert S. McNamara in Washington.

Berry went to Vietnam in the mid-'60s, serving as a senior advisor to the 7th Vietnamese Infantry Division in 1965 and 1966, and as brigade commander of the 1st U.S. Infantry Division in 1966 and 1967.

During that time he became deeply involved in the use of helicopters for airmobile war techniques.

"It is the only really new military technique we got out of Vietnam, learning how much it helps in assault, evacuation support of ground forces in every way," Berry says.

"The commander in the Civil War rode a horse. The commander of World War II rode in a jeep. The commander's 'horse' now is the helicopter."

In Vietnam, Berry became a helicopter pilot, training on his own time in the early mornings and on weekends.

Later in 1967 he was assigned to the office of the Army chief of staff in New York and from 1968 to 1970 he was assistant commandant of the U.S. Army Infantry School at Ft. Benning, Ga.

He returned to Vietnam in 1970 as assistant division commander of the 101st Airborne Division Airmobile and returned to Washington the following year to command the Army's Military Personnel Center.

Berry wears the insignia of a senior parachutist and has made 108 noncombat jumps. Berry says he "simply has a desire to be experienced and capable in all divisions the Army has."

He won't be on unfamiliar grounds at West Point, having served for three years as an instructor and as an assistant professor in the academy's department of social sciences.

In succeeding Lt. Gen. William A. Knowlton, who will move on to become chief of staff of the U.S. European Command, Berry becomes the third commander of the 101st Airborne to become a West Point superintendent.

Gen. Maxwell Taylor made the same move in 1945 and Gen. William C. Westmoreland in 1960. Both subsequently became Army chief of staff.

No successor has been named for Berry at Ft. Campbell, where he sought to humanize the Army and to increase "the pride, dignity and soldierly competence and sense of satisfaction in the duty of each soldier."

Recently he enlisted the 101st Airborne's 20,000th volunteer.

Musician Union, Club Owners Off Key in Woodstock

By JON POWERS

WOODSTOCK

Music is as common to Woodstock as art, antiques and alternative living, but right now it is creating quite a stir among the people who play and the people who pay.

At the center of the controversy is Musicians' Local 215, which has jurisdiction over Woodstock and most of the Catskill region. Intent on both protecting its own status and assuring that all the musicians earn a liveable wage, Local 215 has launched a concerted drive to spread the union gospel among some reticent disbelievers.

The musicians — the people who play in the varied pubs and bars of this musically-famous town — apparently have few qualms about the union and the benefits it offers. Some clubowners, citing economic reasons, feel differently.

Ron Merrians, who owns Joyous lake, has pointed out that, in his business, there is often a fine line between profit and loss; that if he is forced to pay the union scale to the musicians who play his club, he may be forced to cut down on the number of evenings that live entertainment is offered at Joyous Lake.

But Harry Castiglione, president of local 215, doesn't agree that things are that tight for Woodstock's clubowners, or that they can't afford to pay union prices.

"Our scales are fair," said Castiglione, "and the clubowners can afford to pay. We're not asking for the moon; we are asking that they pay a fair price for good talent."

Castiglione pointed out that most musicians in Woodstock are union members. The controversy began, he said, when Local 215 was forced to fine several of its members for playing gigs with non-union musicians.

That prompted the drive for town-wide membership. Local 215 reasoned that if all the musicians join the union, the clubowners will be forced to pay scale.

But Castiglione admits that it has been difficult convincing all the performers to buy the union package. "Some of the musicians are worried that the clubs will start hiring non-union people, and that they'll be frozen out of a job," he said, "but I think the clubs are willing to go along with us."

The union president added, "You also have to realize that most of the good musicians are already union members. The union carries strength and pretige and they realize that. And many of the top recording companies won't sign a contract with non-union performers."

Castiglione admits there will never be 100 per cent membership in the union. "Some musicians are willing to play for nothing," he said, "just for chance to play in Woodstock. New groups are moving in and out of the area every week. We're asking the clubs to give first shot to the union musicians."

Joyous Lake, Cafe Espresso and The Pub are the three most popular performing spots in Woodstock, and Castiglione is confident that the three won't create any problems. That, he said, is the best guarantee that the music keeps playing in Woodstock.

UCCC's Miss Muroff Professor Emeritus

MISS MUROFF WITH ONE OF HER PAINTINGS
(Eeva-Inkert Photo)

STONE RIDGE

Miss Ruth Muroff, a founding member of the faculty at Ulster County Community College, yesterday (June 9) was named Professor Emeritus by the Board of Trustees at the College's 10th commencement.

Mrs. George F. Bushnell, chairman of the Board of Trustees, said the Board had conferred this distinctive status on Miss Muroff, chairman of the Department of Visual Arts, "to recognize her excellence as a teacher and the outstanding contributions which she had made to her students of all ages."

Professor Muroff was praised for establishing and developing the Department of Visual Arts which has become a vigorous force at the College. She also was commended for contributing significantly to the College and its community through exceptional art exhibitions on a continuing basis and for her many art acquistions for the College along with her students' works which have enhanced the cultural climate of the campus and brought educational and esthetic enrichment to the College and its community.

Miss Muroff, who is retiring at the end of the present academic year, is the first UCCC faculty member to be given emeritus status.

As a Professor Emeritus, she will continue to represent the College in professional groups and participate in commencement and other academic programs. Her name and rank will be listed in the official College catalog.

Professor Muroff received her training in Art and Industrial Design. She earned an A.B. Degree at Hunter College and an M.A. Degree in the Arts from Columbia University.

She has had many years experience as a designer and also is accomplished in painting, advertising, design and grahpics. In 1960 she was elected to membership in the American Institute of Interior Designers and in 1962 she won a Citation of Merit Award for outstanding design in the United States.

Her art works are exhibited in various museums and galleries and her paintings are in many private collections throughout the country.

156 Gain BOCES Awards; Program Slated June 14

KYSERIKE

Certificates of Completion will be presented to 156 students at the annual awards assembly of Ulster County Board of Cooperative Educational Services.

The program will be held 7 p.m. Friday, June 14 at the Rondout Valley High School. The BOCES awards assembly provides the opportunity for students to be recognized for completing a vocational education program as part of their secondary education. Parents and friends are invited.

George Langwick, president of the BOCES board, will present the certificates. Guest speaker will be John Mulin of the Building and Construction Trades Council. Michael Aronica, director of vocational education, and Robert Braun, assistant director, will participate also.

Awards for perfect attendance and achievements in the various curriculum areas will be given in addition to the Certificates of Completion.

The program is being planned by a committee of teachers under the direction of Parker Black and William Booth.

"How can I prove I mailed something. Or that it got there?"

Postmaster Oscar V. Newkirk
Kingston, New York 12401
wants you to have the answer.

People often ask us at the Post Office about mailing things that are more important than everyday mail. Things like financial and legal papers. Or payments on bills with a penalty date.

With something important, it's a good idea to have proof that you mailed it. And proof it was received. That way, nobody can say you didn't send something when you did.

Certified Mail. Proof you mailed something.

People use Certified Mail when they don't want any question by anybody that something was mailed. It's good for things like mailing your income tax, or paying insurance bills.

Because with Certified Mail you can get a receipt that proves you mailed. And it shows the date, too. This costs 30¢. A record of delivery is kept at the Post Office.

Return Receipt. Proof your mail was received.

Sometimes your mail is so important you can't sleep unless you know it got where it was going.

That's when to use Return Receipt. Because you get a card back that shows you the signature of whoever received your mail.

When you use this service along with Certified Mail, you can get both proof you mailed and proof it was received Return Receipt costs 15¢.

Restricted Delivery. For personal and confidential mail.

With Restricted Delivery, we take your mail only to the person you say—and nobody else at that address can get it. Used with Return Receipt, you'll get a card back with that person's signature, and only his signature. The only exception is to government officials whose volume of mail makes Restricted Delivery impossible.

Restricted Delivery is good for things like very personal letters when you want only one certain person to see what you wrote. And for confidential mail, like when you complete a credit application. Or send contract papers to your bank or lawyer. Restricted Delivery costs an extra 50¢.

Registered Mail. Extra security for valuables.

Registered Mail is the safest way to mail things of value. For example, jewelry or checks that are negotiable. Let's say you send a watch to your nephew for a graduation present, and you send it Registered Mail. That watch will be signed in and out every step on its way to your nephew. Which means someone in the Post Office is always personally responsible for its safety. Registered Mail starts at 95¢, and you get insurance for anywhere up to $10,000.

We're here to help.

There are many different ways you can send your mail. And, we want you to know how to use our different services when you need them. So we've put together a handy booklet for you called A Consumer's Guide to Postal Services and Products. It's easy to read, and will give you lots of help with your mail. They're free while they last at your Post Office.

And, whenever you have a question, we want you to come in and ask us. We're here to help.

You have questions.
We want you to have the answers.

Trustee Challenges Petitions

Paltz Pay Dispute Continues

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ

The petitions calling for a referendum on village board salaries were formally challenged by a trustee, and the village attorney told the board of three choices it has in the matter if the petitions are valid, at a special meeting of the New Paltz Village Board Monday night.

The petitions, containing 179 signatures, were handed in to Village Clerk Robert I. Remsnyder May 30. They call for a referendum on the local law passed by the board, in conjunction with the 1974-75 budget, calling for raises for the trustees from $1,200 a year to $2,000 and for the mayor from $1,800 to $3,000.

Challenging the petitions was Trustee John Logan. He said that "to a layman's eye" the petitions did not appear to have been properly witnessed.

Village Attorney J. Philip Zand said he would check on that, and furnish a written report before the board's regular meeting June 24.

If the petitions are accepted as valid — Remsnyder must accept or reject them, and inform the board of his action within 30 days of their submission — Zand said the board could adopt a local law authorizing a special election no sooner than 60 days after the authorizing local law was adopted, not adopt the referendum local law and wait until the village general election in March of 1975, or rescind the salary law.

Prior to the meeting, public hearings were held on two ordinances affecting parking in the village.

The first public hearing was on ending the use of pennies in village parking meters. It was a short hearing, only two persons being present and neither of them having comment on the proposal.

A penny used to buy 12 minutes of parking in the village. The board ended that after the public hearing, and the smallest coin village parking meters will accept once converted will be a nickel. The nickel buys an hour. Logan said the conversion will cost about $60 total for all the village's meters.

Trustee John Sherwig was the only board member to vote against the proposal, saying, "There ought to be something in New Paltz you can still buy for a penny."

The board eliminated parking, except for weekends and legal holidays, on Plattekill Avenue from South Manheim Boulevard to Lookout Avenue, after the second public hearing. On weekends and legal holidays parking will be permitted on the north side of Plattekill.

The proposal before the board was the total elimination of parking on that section of Plattekill, which is adjacent to the college. The modification was suggested by Dr. William Hageny, the Plattekill Avenue resident who had also suggested the original proposal. He said the residents of the street and their guests often used the street for parking on weekends.

The board, at the urging of local resident Jack Rasmussen, is also going to contact the college about closing a college parking lot along Plattekill in the area of College Hall. The parking, for 32 cars, is at right angles to the street, and Rasmussen said cars backing out of the spaces were a danger.

New York Telephone was given permission to underground a new cable along Main Street, with the proviso that the rest of the cables on the street be placed underground as they wear out.

The board approved the construction of about 150 feet of sidewalk along Hasbrouck Avenue at a price of $1,950, by Kenneth Hasbrouck.

Tivoli to Seek $13,000 In Taxes Owed by Railroad

By TIM SCHUSTER

TIVOLI

The Village of Tivoli is proceeding with plans to attempt to regain the $13,000 in back taxes owed the village by Penn Central Railroad.

The railroad, which was declared legally bankrupt three years ago and has since been taken over by the Amtrak system, has not paid any taxes since 1971.

Its Hudson Valley line on the east shore of the Hudson River includes most of the river-front property that is accessible by automobile.

Mayor Mortimer Appel noted at Monday night's village board meeting that village attorney Tom Frost is currently involved in an effort to recoup some of these losses that have had to be borne in costs by the rest of the taxpayers of this small village.

The subject of Kingston Cablevision once again reared its head, as Trustee Dwight Williams explained that an application to extend its lines in Northern Dutchess to Tivoli had been "held up in Albany."

The village has been attempting to unravel the mess through Assemblyman Emeel Betros' office. According to sources at Monday's meeting, the original contract for service was extended one time for a year. That year has since expired and the contract considered violated. The company has had service in Rhinebeck and Red Hook for the past two years.

Tivoli is considering a revamping if its insurance coverage. An insurance representative, Peter Fingar, gave the board some preliminary findings and suggested compiled by Continental Insurance Company that opined the library was "grossly underinsured" in fire protection, but did not recommend much of an increase for the three-story village hall-firehouse as it was considered "obsolete."

In other village business, it was noted that a public hearing on Paul Barraco's proposed housing subdivision on North Road called Tivoli Gardens has been set for June 17 at village offices.

The project, composed of about 21 acres, would have four new homes constructed first and add others and needed roads and services at a later date.

Clean up day to rid villagers of large unwanted itesm will be held June 18.

And the board appointed Mrs. Janet Barrett new registrar of the Village of Tivoli.

A report from the Dutchess County Department of Health found the village's relatively new sewerage treatment plant in good shape, and a new flow meter for the plant has arrived and will soon be installed.

Police Chief Reginald Moore reminded summer pranksters that it is illegal to climb the Tivoli Water Tower near the park. He said that three persons have been arrested thus far in recent weeks, and a fine of $25 for disorderly conduct may be imposed.

Sept. 3 Trial Set On Attica Murder

BUFFALO (AP)—Two men accused of killing a guard during the Attica prison rebellion have been scheduled to go on trial Sept. 3.

The trial date for Charles Pernasalice, 22, of Syracuse and John B. Hill, 21, of Buffalo was set Monday by Justice Carman F. Ball of State Supreme Court.

Both men remained free on $10,000 bail each. They were charged with murder in the beating death of guard William Quinn, the first of 43 persons to die during the Sept. 9-13, uprising.

Attorneys for the two men protested the trial date, saying they had insufficient time to prepare their cases.

Pernasalice is represented by former U.S. Atty. Gen. Ramsey Clark and law professor Herman Schwartz of the State University at Buffalo Law School.

Hill is represented by civil rights attorney William Kunstler and Patrick J. Butler of Buffalo.

The two defendants are the only ones of 61 present and former Attica inmates indicted in the revolt to have a firm trial date.

Vernon LaFranque of Brooklyn, indicted on charges of possession of contraband and weapons, had been set to stand trial May 28, but the case is now scheduled for a pretrial conference on June 24. Neither LaFranque nor his attorney showed on the original trial date or on a postponed date.

The pretrial proceedings for the purpose of setting trial dates for the Attica defendants was scheduled to continue today.

The date for Pernasalice's and Hill's trial was announced after a series of private meetings between defense attorneys and Ball in the judge's private chambers. Ball said he would continue the private meetings for the rest of the week.

The Attica uprising resulted in the deaths of 32 inmates and 11 prison employes. All but three inmates and Quinn were fatally injured on the final day during an armed State Police assault on the rebel-held section of the prison.

Impeach Group Raps Fish, Ford

POUGHKEEPSIE

A charge of "impropriety" has been lodged against Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr. (R-25th Dist.) with regard to the upcoming appearance of Vice President Gerald Ford at a dinner honoring Fish in Yorktown June 15.

R. Morse Wade, chairman of the 25th Congressional District Impeachment Committee, said that, "As a member of the House Committee which is investigating the impeachment of the President, Fish's fraternization with the highest administration spokesman brings his neutrality into question."

Wade said that the vice president's office in Washington confirmed that Ford will be in Yorktown next Saturday speaking at the dinner at Loch Ledge Country Club.

"How can the House Committee be fairly evaluating the evidence of impeachment when the President refuses to turn over all the evidence and a committee member feels free to invite the Vice President to dinner?" Wade asked.

The Impeachment Committee which Wade heads is an affiliate of the Mid-Hudson Chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. It has carried on an information campaign since last October in support of impeachment.

Wade said that some members of his impeachment Committee, including some from the Kingston area, would join with another group to protest. The groups plan an impeachment picket line outside the Loch Ledge Country Club in Yorktown the night of Ford's appearance.

Red Hook Impasse

RED HOOK

A fact finder has been appointed in the ongoing contract negotiation difficulties in the Red Hook Central School District by the Public Employment Relations Board.

Joel Douglas of Mahopac, who has been acting in the capacity of mediator until last week, was given the assignment by PERB when contract negotiations entered the fact finding stage.

He served as mediator until last week in the disputes between the Red Hook Central School and Red Hook Faculty Association.

The district's annual meeting is scheduled for tonight, with budget and board member candidate voting set for Wednesday.

Voigtlaender - Matthews Marriage Is Announced

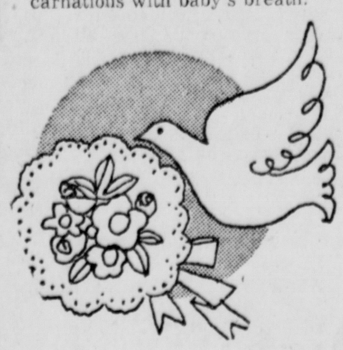

MRS. BRAD KEVIN MATTHEWS
(Laura Anne Voigtlaender)
(Westergard photo)

Laura Anne Voigtlaender, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curt Voigtlaender of 9 Summit Avenue, Hurley, became the bride of Brad Kevin Matthews, son of Mrs. Constance Matthews of Lake Katrine and Robert Matthews of 17 Stanley Street, Kingston.

The Rev. Charles E. Stickley officiated at the double ring ceremony Saturday, June 1 at Hurley Reformed Church. Mrs. Frank Welch, organist, provided traditional wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She selected a French satin-faced organza gown fashioned in the princess style with short sleeves. Venise lace encircled the waistline and cathedral length train. The gown was made by the bride's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Charles Bixby of Florida. A matching Venise lace and organza headpiece held her three-tiered, chapel-length, silk illusion veil. She carried a white bridal bouquet of gladioli, carnations, baby's breath, centered with a single white rose.

Miss Virginia R. Johnson of Hurley was maid of honor in a light pink crepe gown fashioned with a plain bodice and pink floral print skirt. She wore a matching picture hat and carried a nosegay of pink carnations with baby's breath.

Attendants were Linda Poit of Massapequa; Mrs. Mark Stevens, Lake Katrine; Jeanne Voigtlaender, sister of the bride, Hurley; and Danielle Matthews, sister of the bridegroom, Lake Katrine. Their gowns were fashioned identically to the honor attendant's except two attendants wore mint green and two wore pale yellow. They carried nosegays to match their gowns and wore matching picture hats.

Gary Matthews of Connecticus was best man for his brother. Ushering were Robert Stevens, Mark Stevens, Kurt Matthews, brother of the bridegroom, all of Lake Katrine; and Russell Voigtlaender, brother of the bride, Hurley.

A reception was given at Twin Lakes Mountain House in Hurley.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Kingston High School, just completed her sophomore year at State University College at New Paltz. She is employed by Twin Lake Mountain House.

Her husband, a 1971 alumnus of KHS, was graudated in May from the Culinary Institute of America, Hyde Park, and is also employed by Twin Lakes Mountain House.

After a wedding trip to the Poconos in Pennsylvania and Cape Cod, Mass., Mr. and Mrs. Matthews will reside at Twin Lakes Mountain House.

UNITED REFORMED CHURCH, Town of Rosendale, will hold its annual country fair and auction on Saturday, June 15 at 10 a. m. The auction will commence at 2 p. m. Mabel Markle, Kay Hicks and Mabel Ordway exhibit a variety of handcrafts which will be featured in the Country Needle and Craft booth. Baked goods, preserves and homemade ice cream will also be available. A color scheme of red, white and blue will highlight the affaifr. A kid corral with games and do-it-yourself craft table will be another feature of the fair. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Mrs. Sidney Lane Attends Awards Convocation at West Point

Mrs. Sidney Lane, National Council member, Veterans of Foreign Wars Auxiliary, attended the Awards' Convocation at the United States Military Academy, West Point, recently. She represented Mrs. Odie Lee Gossett of Monroe, who is the national president of the Ladies Auxiliary to the Vieterans fo Foreign Wars, and presented an award to Cadet Thomas J. Anthony Jr. who attained the highest rating in Fourth Class English. A total of 107 awards valued at $18,000 were presented to 82 Cadets of the Class of 1974. These awards are presented annually by organizations and prominent personages in recognition of outstanding achievements by cadets in academic, military, extra-curricular and atheltic endeavors.

Annually the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Veterans of Foreign Wars presents awards to all service academies.

Mr. and Mrs. Lane were guests of Lt. General William A. Knowlton, Superintendent of the Academy, along with the other donors for luncheon in the Cadets' Mess and the Graduation Review on the Plain in the afternoon.

Major Anthony E. Hartle was Mrs. Lane's escort for the day. He has been on the teaching staff of the Academy for the last three years in the English Department and served two tours of duty in Vietnam.

Mrs. Lane is a Past State President as well as a past president of the local auxiliary.

Cathy Jean Hinchey Weds Donald D. Schaffer

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph D. Hinchey Sr., Route 3, Box 155, Saugerties, announce the marriage of their daughter, Cathy Jean, to Donald Dale Schaffer, Route 3, Box 57, Saugerties. He is the son of Donald H. Schaffer of Route 212, Saugerties.

The wedding took place in St. John the Evangelist Church, Veteran, with the Rev. Msgr. John Reardon officiating.

Joseph Hinchey gave his daughter in marriage. She selected a gown of lace over satin styled with a high ruffled neckline and tapered sleeves. The gown featured a cape effect at the bodice. A bonnet of matching fabric and lace held her chapel-length veil.

Maid of honor was Ellen Kaplan of Saugerties. Ronnie Fitzgerald of the Bronx served as an attendant. They wore green and light blue polyester gowns fashioned with high necklines, long sleeves and bodices with ruffled bib effects.

Carl Mackay of Saugerties was best man. Ushering was Joseph D. Hinchey Jr. of Saugerties.

A reception was given in St. Joseph's hall, Glasco.

Mrs. Schaffer was graduated from Saugerties High School and is employed as a computer operator at Ferroxcube Corporation, Saugerties. Her husband attended Saugerties High School and is employed by Colonial Coal Yard, Saugerties.

The couple will reside in Saugerties.

Music Students Give Benefit Recital

Mrs. Jane Tonnesen presented a group of her music students in a recital June 8 in Ramsey Hall of First Presbyterian Church, Kingston.

This is the seventh year that Mrs. Tonnesen has donated her services to benefit the Hudson Valley Philharmonic. This year's recital was the first held in Kingston and the first at which only a few students performed.

Included in the recital were piano solos by Susan Blanchard, Susan Braen, Todd Brawner, Carol Costello, Edmond Fabbie, Josanne Greco, Wendy Jackaway, Laura Johnson, Louise Johnson, Bruce Johnson, Brian Johnson, Ann Knickmeyer, Rhoda Margesson, Maureen McMahon, Nancy Ohnikian, Susan Osborn, Kim Palmer.

A piano duet was presented by Kathy Baker and Mari Kim Moore and a flute solo was played by Ingrid Fabbie, accompanied by her brother Edmond Fabbie.

Peter Kachigian, a former pupil of Mrs. Tonnesen, who had been studying piano and organ at the Conservatory of Music in Boston for the past two years, concluded the recital with Liszt's Concert Etude in D Flat, "Un Sospiro."

Lenox Autumn and Blue Tree have been a tradition with brides for more than half a century.
It's easy to see why brides keep falling in love with these Lenox China patterns.
Autumn is a hand-decorated harvest of blues and greens and subtle fall colors in raised enamel. Banded in 24-karat gold. Blue Tree is a colorful stylized botanical design. Banded in pastel blue and 24-karat gold.
American brides have always loved Lenox for many reasons. Handcrafted beauty. Translucency. Durability. Quality. Tradition.
Hand-blown Lenox Crystal is a cherished tradition, too. Its patterns coordinate beautifully with Lenox China.
Come in and see all the Lenox China and Crystal, and register for the patterns you love most. It's time to start your own traditions.

DEBORAH ESTRIN, age 4, and Daniel Eichhorn, 3, listen as Mrs. Sharon Slotnick, teacher, reads a storybook at Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School. (Freeman photo by Haines)

New Community Nursery School

Mrs. Sharon Slotnick, teacher-director of the newly-created Temple Emanuel Community Nursery School, brings much talent, education and experience to this program. Her educational experiences include a year of substitute teaching for the New York City Department of Day Care in more than 25 centers in Harlem and Spanish Harlem, working with retarded youngsters at the New Paltz Middle School and student teaching at a second-grade level at George Washington Elementary School and Fair Street Nursery School in Kingston.

Mrs. Slotnick's ultimate goal for the school is "to encourage each child to attain his fullest intelectual, emotional and physical development in a suprervised play and learning experience with his peers." "In an atmosphere of love and mutual respect," she states, "the preschooler will move toward self-reliance and fulfillment and will have the opportunity to learn to accept and respect his needs and the needs of others." "Out nursery school," she continues, "will provide a much-needed service to the community in general and Jewish parents in particular by furnishing three to five year-olds with a preschool experience in a Jewish setting."

Mrs. Slotnick received her Bachelor of Science degree in Education (Nursery School through Sixth Grade) from S.U.N.Y. (New Paltz) after having attended Boston University, the School of Visual Arts and Hunter College. She is presently working towards her M.S. in Special Education at a S.U.N.Y. (New Paltz).

There will be a meeting of the Board of Trustees of the Nursery school at the home of Mr. Tom Phillips, 263 Smith Avenue, Kingston on June 17 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Soltnick welcomes all interested parents who would like to attend.

HOW TO WORK WITH YOUR NURSERYMAN

Your local nurseryman can be the most important person when it comes to planting your home grounds. But, if you come to him supplied with certain aids and information, he can do an even better job in making your home grounds a virtual showplace, says Phyllis W. Barlow, Extension Home Economist Following are some of the things that would help your nurseryman suggest plants and planting spots in your garden.

Have accurate dimensions of your entire grounds. It is surprising how estimates of distance can be distorted. Actually, measure distances with a tape measure or long rule.

Draw a rough plan of your grounds. Just a simple plan is all that your local nurseryman needs. An easy way to draw a plan is to use graph paper and let each box represent a specific distance — say one foot. Then you can sketch in your house, garage, drives and walks, as well as large trees, fences, etc.

If you have any steep grades on your property, be sure to mark these on your plan. Sometimes it is advisable to make a special plan just for the elevations.

Find out what plants you already have on your property. The easiest way to determine these is to bring leaves or twigs to your nurseryman who will be able to identify them quickly. He will also be able to tell you whether they are "valuable" plants or whether you should consider their removal and replacement.

So the nurseryman will be able to select plants that will be fitting with the architecture of your house, bring along some snapshots of the house, garage and other features on your grounds.

Plants grow in soil. You should have an idea of what kind of soil you have. Bring along a sample. Your nurseryman will be able to tell if it appears different from the surrounding soil. Some nurserymen will test your soil, or you can have your soil tested by Cooperative Extension, 74 John Street, Kingston free of charge.

Decide whether you want flowering shrubs and trees, or whether you are interested in the foliage. You may want to attract birds. Your nurseryman will have many suggestions for both, but he wants to please you first.

Inform your garden nurseryman of how you intend to use your garden. For example, do you like to give parties, would you care for a dance area, a playground for the children, possibly a barbecue section, small seating areas for intimate gatherings or any other entertainment elements you feel should be part of your outdoor living. By arming yourself with this information, you will be surprised how easy it will be for your nurseryman to be of greater service.

TODAY'S TREASURES

A Toast To Mettlach

By JEAN BARNES

You could say that Kathryn S. collects collections. She is responsible for filling the cabinets in the Collector's Room of the art asssociation in her town.

A brisk, efficient person, she has a persuasive manner which brushes away any obstacle in her path and uses it to benefit many organizations in which she is interested.

When, on a recent Sunday, she told me of the Mettlach collection on display, I was compelled to see it. It was not a wasted afternoon for the pieces were varied and beautiful.

In the United States the name Mettlach has become almost synonomous with the word "stein." The collection proves that this is a narrow concept of the potter's art. Pitchers, boxes, vases, cracker jars, punch bowls, placques, plates as well as a variety of steins were displayed.

The village of Mettlach is situated in the valley of the Soar along the Moselle River in Germany.

The factory was once an old abbey built in 697. It was plundered during the French Revolution and left in ruins. The abbey was purchased by Jean Francois Boch in 1809. He restored the buildings, installed creamic implements and work began on the new Mettlach ware.

The first Mettlach stoneware articles were jugs, tankards, steins and chalices. Embellishments were ornamented in relief. Later, through the introduction of "Chromolith" ware in 1860 ornamentation was inlaid giving the effect of cloisonne.

Outstanding in the collection were the caceo plates and placques. The soft white cameo figures have the look of sculpture against a background of an indescribable blue. Yet, the enamel-like quality of the fairytale plates and stately vases are equally exquisite.

The secret of the colored clays and methods of manufacture have never been revealed to creamists outside the factory. Although it is still being produced, it cannot be authentically copied. Usually pieces are marked with an imprint of a chapel under a glaze.

Kathryn's enthusiasm about this collection is understandable. We owe our gratitude to her and many like her in towns across the country who help to make it possible for private collectors to share their fine collections with the public. Thank you all.

Black Boyfriend Shocks Her Parents

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN
© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Judy, our 22-year-old daughter, is a graduate student, living out of state. She's pretty and popular and always has been a leader and an honor student.

Judy had written about a very fine black girl she had become friendly with at college. We live in a small mid-western town and never had anything to do with the few black families who live on the highway.

Judy phoned a few days ago and asked if she could bring a young man home for a visit. I said: "Certainly."

Then she said: "He's black."

I asked: "HOW black?"

She said: "About as black as black can get." The she went on to tell me that he was the brother of her college friend, also a graduate student, and an outstanding person, etc.

I managed to control my emotions, and asked whether she was serious about him. She said: "Possibly, but I don't think I'm lucky enough to get him."

Abby, no one in her father's family or mine would ever understand it if Judy were to marry a black man. I can see nothing but heartaches and problems ahead for her if she married him. I'm not a bigot, but we just aren't ready for something like this. I told her not to bring him home until I could prepare her father for the shock, so she said: "Unless you treat him properly, I'd rather not subject him to any humiliation." That's where we left it.

Now, what do we do, Abby?
SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Unless you and your husband can treat your daughter's friend as though he were a Caucasian with a suntan, tell her not to bring him home. But don't be surprised if Judy doesn't come either. She's old enough to choose her friends. And by the way, what is your definition of a bigot?

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My career is my home and family, and I am proud of it. But for some strange reason, when a housewife is asked what she does, she very apologetically says: "I'm ONLY a housewife." This irritates me to no end.

When I am asked what I do, I proudly say: "I am an oikologist." The word comes from the Greek words "Oikos," which means house, and "ologist" which means "one who studies" or "is an expert in."

Please pass this on for other housewives. Perhaps they will feel more important if they use it, too.

OIKOLOGIST

DEAR OIK: I wouldn't recommend springing that on the average Joe without defining it. The "oikologist" might be mistaken for an expert on pigs.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you'll put this in your column for those nice people who are guilty, but are not aware of it.

Two months ago I had a breast removed, also the lymph glands under my arm. (Cancer.) I am doing fine, and I look fine, so I started to go to my club meetings and to church.

Just about every other person I meet is so happy to see me up and around again that they slap or grip my sore arm. I'm sure they don't realize how painful this is because they don't connect my operation with my arm.

They are dear people, and I wouldn't hurt them for the world, but, Abby, my arm is still swollen, has fever in it, and when it's gripped it hurts like mad. It's getting so I hate to go anywhere because I'm afraid of this painful greeting I'm sure to get.

Maybe some of those nice but slap-happy people will read this and take note.

ACHING ARM

DEAR ACHING: Consider it done.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

MAN ON DEFENSE — Johnny Miller begins defense of his U. S. Open title at Winged Foot in Mamaroneck Thursday. The blond, 27-year-old San Franciscan has everything going for him. (UPI)

Miller Didn't Need Practice

MAMARONECK (UPI) — Johnny Miller had so many things to do, he didn't get much of a chance to warm up.

It didn't matter that much.

The mercury had hit 92 degrees. That's hot enough for anybody, even Johnny Miller.

Still, he was concerned Monday when he walked up to hit his first shot at Winged Foot Golf Club, where he begins defense of his U.S. Open title Thursday. He wished he had been able to hit a few practice shots before making it to the first tee. Now it was too late.

"I'll probably dub this one," he said.

Johnny Miller addressed the ball, made a picture-smooth shoulder turn, brought all his power back down against his strong, straight left side and let fly.

Everybody should dub his first shot the way Johnny Miller did.

The ball took off beautifully, boring through the oppressive humidity, cutting the fairway evenly in two, and finally coming to rest right out there in the middle, 270 yards from the point it began its flight.

Johnny Miller never so much as changed expression.

Sport Parade

Milton Richman, UPI Sports Editor

He started down the fairway briskly, and looked not so much like a man who was working, or practicing his work, but like one completely enjoying himself.

Why not?

The blond, 27-year-old San Franciscan has everything going for him: money, prestige, good looks and momentum. He also has something else going for him in this one. A little extra cushion you could call it, in the form of the knowledge that nobody has managed to win a pair of U.S. Opens back-to-back now in more than 20 years. Last man to do it was Ben Hogan in 1951.

"No one has won it twice in a row since Hogan," said Miller. "Nobody ever repeats, so I've got everything to gain and nothing to lose. I think I'll be all right in this Open. It's entirely different for me than it was a year ago this time. Mentally, anyway.

"I was a young lion, so to speak," Miller went on, employing one of the cliches he obviously had picked up in some golf story he had read. "I had come close, won a few tournaments, but basically I was far from arriving. When I won the Open, then the World Cup and the five tournaments this year, well, maybe you could almost say I've arrived . . . even though sometimes I wonder if I have."

Johnny Miller can stop wondering. He's arrived, and what's more I think he knows it. One of the things which makes me suspect that is the way he talks about his game.

"I feel my game is a good game, not a fluke," he said. "If you've got it, you've got it."

He suddenly realized how that sounded and started laughing, saying, no, no, he hadn't meant it to come out that way.

"Well, there's some truth to it," he finally gave in. "The last two weeks I was eight under and 11 under in the tournaments I played. I didn't win, but finished tied for third in Philadelphia, which was exactly where I finished before the Open last year. So maybe that's a good omen. What I'm saying, though, is that I don't find it one week and lose it the next four. If you've got a good solid game, you don't have the big valleys and big peaks, you just poke along like Nicklaus. Jack has had a little bit of a slow year, but he's still won a bunch of money."

Jack Nicklaus has won a bunch of money, all right, $115,832, but he's only fourth on the money winnings list. Nobody has won more than Johnny Miller. He has bagged $203,690 to lead everybody.

But now, back at Winged Foot, he had reached his drive and now the caddie was filling him in on the bunkers up ahead on both the left and right-hand sides. Miller backed up off his ball and, after checking with his caddie, made a mental note of the yardage by using a nearby tree as his marker.

Then he made his second shot, which landed on the green, 15 feet from the stick. He got down in two for his par and seemed reasonably satisfied.

Johnny Miller walked toward the second tee, talking about some of those things anyone needed to succeed on the tour.

"Good sound fundamentals, and a good brain in your head," he said. "You can't play this game on our level without being a good thinker."

The defending U.S. Open champion has improved there also.

He used to make a bad shot and lose his composure.

Not so much anymore. In cases like these, having money generally helps.

For Mike Schmidt: The Longest Single

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

One of these days someone is really going to hit the roof at the Houston Astrodome. Mike Schmidt did Monday night . . . in a matter of speaking.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infielder hit a ball in the first inning that appeared headed for home run territory in center field before it bounced off a speaker hanging from the roof of the chic glass house.

The ball fell back on the field and Schmidt got only a distinguished single out of it. Was he mad—even though the Phillies won the game, 12-0.

"If I'm one short of winning the National League home run title, I'll think back to this one that I didn't get," said Schmidt. "There's no doubt in my mind that it would have been a home run except for that speaker."

Houston centerfielder Cesar Cedeno thought so, too: "That ball might have hit the flag above the electronic scoreboard in centerfield if it hadn't hit the speaker."

As it was, the base hit was beneficial to the Philadelphia cause. It loaded the bases and set the stage for Bill Robinson's two-run double. A sacrifice fly by Mike Anderson staked Jim Lonborg to an early, three-run lead. It was all downhill after that.

Martin Back Home Again

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Billy Martin learned Monday night that yes, you can go home again.

Martin, a crowd pleaser in Detroit during his three years as manager of the Tigers, made his first appearance in Detroit as skipper of the Texas Rangers Monday night and walked away with a 6-3 victory.

He received an ovation from the Tiger Stadium crowd of 22,696 when he took the lineup card to home plate before the game, and also was cheered loudly when he argued a pick-off call in the third inning. But in the eighth, when he went out to the mound to make a pitching change, there were a few boos mixed in with the cheers.

Martin said he was very pleased by the reaction he received from the Tiger fans:

"I don't know how other managers would feel but when you come back to the town you managed in and they cheer you like that, it really made me feel good."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 4-1, the New York Yankees trimmed the California Angels 7-5 and the Minnesota Twins routed the Baltimore Orioles 9-1.

After leading the Tigers to the American Leagce East pennant in 1972, the mercurial Martin was fired by Detroit general manager Jim Campbell last September. Shortly after he signed a five-year contract to manage the Rangers, a young team which he has spurred into second place in the AL West, just two games behind Oakland.

Red Sox 4, A's 1

Dwight Evans' three-run homer and Luis Tiant's stand-out pitching carried the Red Sox past the A's in a battle of division leaders.

Evans lofted a fastball from Vida Blue down the right field line in the fifth inning and it just curled inside the foul pole for the homer, capping the decisive four-run inning.

Yankees 7, Angels 5

Lou Piniella drove in the winning run with an eighth inning double and then scored an insurance tally in the Yankees' triumph over California.

Twins 9, Orioles 1

The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs in the seventh inning and coasted to victory over the Orioles. Tony Oliva laced a two-run single and Bobby Darwin smacked a two-run triple in the inning.

Minnesota starting pitcher Ray Corbin was removed from the game in the first inning after being struck on the pitching hand by a line drive. X-rays revealed a bruise at the base of the right thumb.

BREAKUP MAN — Houston Astros Roger Metzger tries to break up the double play as he slides into second base during fourth inning of Monday game. Phils' Dave Cash (2b) leaps over Metzger after the throw to erase Astros' Bob Watson. (UPI)

In the other National League games Monday night, the Montreal Expos trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 3-1 in a rain-shortened, eight-inning game; the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2 in 11 innings and the San Diego Padres stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-8.

Expos 3, Reds 1

Pitcher Steve Renko tripled home one run and scored another to lead Montreal over Cincinnati in a game called after eight innings because of rain.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2

Joe Torre led off the 11th inning with a home run into the left field pavillion at Dodger Stadium, helping St. Louis beat Los Angeles.

After Torre's blast off reliever Charlie Hough, 6-2, the Cardinals eventually added an insurance run on Jack Heidemann's single. Cardinal reliever Orlando Pena, 4-0, was the winner.

Padres 9, Pirates 8

Horace Clarke delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, capping a wild five-run rally that lifted San Diego over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh built an 8-0 lead through 7½ innings, but starter Jim Rooker and a string of four relief pitchers could not stave off the Padres, who rallied for four runs in the bottom of the eighth and five in tht ninth.

American League scores: Texas 6, Detroit 3; New York 7, California 5; Boston 4, Oakland 1 and Minnesota 9, Baltimore 1.

Trojans Reach Finals

OMAHA, Neb. (UPI) — Southern California defeated Southern Illinois University, 5-3, and Miami surged past Oklahoma, 5-1, in round two action Monday to remain the only two unbeaten teams in the 1974 College World Series here.

The wins set the stage for a Trojans-Hurricanes showdown Wednesday night at Rosenblatt Stadium. Miami came into the tournament co-rated as the nation's No. 1 team with Texas, while Southern California was ranked fith.

Southern California spotted Southern Illinois three runs in the second inning, two of them unearned, before Trojan batters started cracking out their 11 hits.

Three USC singles and a Saluki error put the defending champion Trojans on the board with two runs in the fourth inning.

In the sixth, Southern California went out front for good when a Ken Huizenga single and Bob Mitchell's ground-rule double each produced a run. Senior righthand ace Mark Barr went the distance for the Trojans, striking out eight and notching his tenth win of the year against one loss.

In the earlier game Monday night, Miami spoiled Oklahoma pitcher Bob Shirley's no-hitter in the seventh inning and went on to score all of its five runs in the same inning to defeat the Sooners.

With Shirley cruising along, a Rick D'Innocenzio double drove in Vaughn Flick, who had walked, and the flood gates broke open for Miami. After Shirley loaded the bases, he was replaced by sophomore righthander Ken Palmer who was promptly tagged by Jim Crosta for a two-run double, followed by a two-run single by Orlando Gonzalez.

JOHNNY SAMPLE

Sample Jailed For 3 Years

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Former pro football player Johnny Sample was sentenced to three years in prison today for violating a probation placed on him in 1973 following his conviction for cashing stolen government checks.

Sample, who played with the 1968 Super Bowl champion New York Jets, was sentenced by U.S District Court Judge Daniel H. Huyett 3rd

Huyett sentenced Sample, 36, in March, 1973, placing him on three years probation and fining him $1,000 for cashing $7,400 in government checks, stolen from the mails.

Huyett revoked Sample's probation last May 28 on grounds he had accepted $4,500 in stolen U. S. Treasury Department checks from two men with the promise to pay one-third of their face value when the checks cleared a bank.

In ordering the prison term, Huyett said "the violation of probation is a serious matter. I cannot ignore the seriousness of it."

Huyett said "This is a strong case. I am satisfied with the facts."

The judge said he had given Sample "the benefit of the doubt" with the original probation sentence.

Sample, speaking in his own behalf, twice told the court, "I did not fence any federal checks for anyone. I didn't do anything wrong."

Jimmy Wynn Seventh

Aaron Way Ahead

NEW YORK (AP) — Jimmy Wynn of the Los Angeles Dodgers may be leading the National League in home runs and tied for the lead in runs batted in, but in All-Star votes he's seventh among outfielders, according to figures released Monday by baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's office.

Wynn, with 16 home runs and 51 RBI, has drawn 18,679 votes in the first week of fan balloting for the classic—nearly 64,000 fewer than the present leader, Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves.

Aaron, 40, who became the all-time home run king early in the season by hitting his 715th, got 82,121 votes to lead the league. Aaron, a member of every All-Star team since 1955, was followed by Reggie Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals with 57,756 and the Cardinals' Lou Brock with 45,605.

The next three players are Cincinnati's Pete Rose, Bobby Bonds of the San Francisco Giants, and Pittsburgh's Willie Stargell. After Wynn, Houston's Cesar Cedeno is eighth in the balloting, but in another surprise, the NL's leading hitter, Atlanta's Ralph Garr, is eighth.

The Reds have leaders at three other positions, according to this week's figures. Reds catcher Johnny Bench, with 64,116 votes, leads Ted Simmons of St. Louis by nearly 27,000; Joe Morgan tops second basemen with 44,501 ballots—almost 15,000 more than Dave Cash of the Philadelphia Phillies; and in the league's closest race, Dave Concepcion has 25,535 votes for shortstop to lead Philadelphia's Larry Bowa by 3,000.

Pittsburgh's Richie Hebner heads NL third basemen, drawing 23,980 votes to 19,893 for Atlanta's Derrell Evans, and first baseman Joe Torre of St. Louis, with 46,755 leads Cincinnati's Tony Perez by nearly 20,000. Steve Garvey of the Dodgers was another surprisingly weak draw, taking third behind Perez in the first baseman balloting despite sharing the RBI lead with teammate Wynn.

The first American League figures will be announced Friday. Balloting ends July 6 and the starting teams will be announced July 16. The pitchers for the NL team will be selected by New York Mets Manager Yogi Berra.

This year's game will be played at Pittsburgh's Three Rivers Stadium on Tuesday night, July 23.

Jauffret Upsets Kodes

PARIS (AP) — The men's singles of the French Open Tennis tournament settle down today to the usual European flavor, with some Latin American spice.

With four quarter-final spots filled, the lineup reads: One Frenchman, one Spaniard, one West German and one Chilean. The last four quarter-finalists will be decided today.

The biggest surprise was the arrival of Francois Jauffret, a 7-6 7-5, 7-5 winner over Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia, the 1970 and 1971 French champion who had been seeded No. 2, in a match that finished under floodlights on the red clay center court at Roland Garros Stadium.

Jauffret, the No. 1 French player who is at home at Roland Garros, was not rated in the same class as Kodes, the 1973 Wimbeldon champion and Forest Hills runnerup in 1971 and 1973. But in the crunch it was Kodes who wilted in the cool night air.

In the third set, Kodes served a double fault at break point in the ninth game. In the 11th game he led 40-15, then served three double faults, including the final point.

The top half of the quarter-final draw pits Jauffret against Hans-Jurgen Pohmann of West Germany and Manuel Orantes of Spain against Patricio Cornejo of Chile.

Orantes defeated Arthur Ashe of Miami, co-No. 3 seed 6-1, 6-2, 6-2. Pohman eliminated Eddie Dibbs of Miami, co-No. 9 seed, 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4. Cornejo defeated Jaime Fillol of Chile, his doubles partner.

Fourth round matches today to complete the quarter-final had Raul Ramirez of Mexico vs. Tom Koch of Brazil; Erik Van Dillen of Aptos, Calif., vs. Bjorn Borg of Sweden, a co-No. 3 seed; Harold Solomon of Silver Spring, Md., vs. Marty Riessen of Amelia Island, Fla., U.S. ranked No. 7; and Ilie Nastase of Romania, defending champion seeded No. 1, vs. Onny Parun of New Zeland.

The women's singles quarter-final pairings: Helga Masthoff, West Germany vs. Martina Navratilova, Czechoslovakia; Raquel Giscafre, Argentinia vs. Katja Ebbinghaus, West Germany; Olga Morozova, Russia vs. Maria Neumannova, zechoslovakia; Chris Evert, Fort Lauderdale, Fla. vs. Julie Heldman, Houston.

NFL Hoping To Stop Strike

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League players and owners open a three-day stint at the bargaining table today, attempting to take a leaf from the recent garment workers strike.

William Usery, director of the Federal Conciliation Service, who successfully mediated that dispute, has been secured by the players and owners to attempt to bring about a quick settlement.

Looming as a spectre behind the talks, however, is the threat by the Players Association to strike if an agreement isn't reached by July 1.

Ed Garvey, NFLPA Executive Director, warned the owners Sunday that "there are 12 days of negotiations between now and July 1. If nothing is settled by that time, we will declare a strike."

Garvey first presented a list of demands to owners last April, but they voted down each issue.

Beside the "freedom issues", involving such topics as the Rozelle Rule and the waiver procedures, the players are asking for large increases in such items as the pension plan. A total of 90 demands in all by the players will be under discussion, most of which haven't even been discussed in previous meetings.

Garvey has termed the profit figures released last week by the owners "absolute nonsense.

"There are so many ways you can hide profits. There are all sorts of expenses you can declare."

Anyway, Garvey said, the figures "won't have any effect on our negotiations."

John Thompson, the head of the NFL Management Council, leads the owners' team. The council was created so the owners would have a formal way of dealing with the players.

"We will be represented by as many owners as possible," Thompson said. "We agreed to get started immediately on what the players call 'freedom issues.' We call them 'structural issues'—the waivers, option clauses, etc."

Thompson said the owners are hopeful of an early settlement to set an example of peace and harmony for the next contract. The current agreement ran for four years.

However, there is doubt that an agreement will be reached before mid-July, at which point several exhibition games would be threatened.

Sets Top Banners

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (UPI) — The New York Sets, winning two of three tiebreakers, beat the Baltimore Banners 29-27 Monday night before 1,454 fans at Nassau Coliseum.

New York lost the women's doubles, 7-6, with a 5-3 tiebreaker to bring the score to 15-15 at intermission. But the Sets won the men's doubles with Nikki Pilic and Manuel Santana beating Ian Crookenden and Byron Bertram 7-6 with a 5-3 tiebreaker.

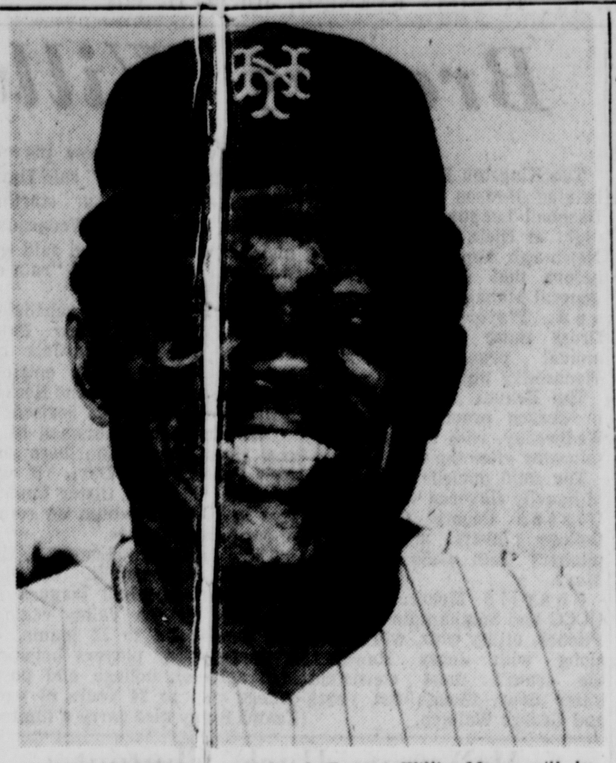

Then Santana teamed with Sharon Walsh to win the mixed doubles by winning the tiebreaker 5-0.

Nagasaki Softies Explode for Win

KINGSTON — The Nagasaki A Bombs exploded for six runs in the sixth inning at Block Park Monday night and went on to post a 10-7 victory over Garraghan Oil in the C Division of the City Slow Pitch League.

In other games, the Pier Seven Reds dumped the Pier Seven Rams, 12-9. Smith Parish beat Terri's Deli, 12-8, the Governor Clinton Cleaners wiped out Rotron, 16-6, and the Kingston Hospital topped B & H Datsun, 9-2.

Ed Golgoskie doubled twice, singled and drove in two runs to lead the Bombs past the Oilmen. Garraghan scored three in the first to take an early lead but failed to hold it despite outhitting the winners. Jim Whalen also had three hits for the Bombs; Pete Fiore slammed four hits for the losers.

The Reds jumped on Frank Spadafora for nine runs in the first inning and hung on for the win. Denny Bart had three hits, and Lee Schaffer tripled and drove in two in the victory.

Smith Parish put together an eight-run fourth to pull away from Terri's. Bill Chaffin drilled a homer, and Jeffery Lucas slapped three hits to back Art Randolph's pitching. Al Schwartz homered for Terri's.

Lee Hotaling flipped a seven hitter while Gary Brower, Floyd Light and George Every all smashed triples to highlight the Gov. Clinton triumph.

The Hospitalmen battered John Mazzucca with 14 hits, scoring all their runs in the first four innings. Tom Gallo tripled, and Ken Heppner had three hits to lead the attack. Mazzucca drove in the Datsun runs in the fifth.

Rad Yaun Far Off Pace

Rome's Deletka Golf Champ

By STEVE KANE

PINE PLAINS — While local entries, including former champion Rad Yaun of Liberty, struggled with the heat and the course at the All American Country Club, Dan Deletka of Section III's Rome Catholic High fired a closing 75 Monday to take a one-shot victory in the New York State High School Golf Championship.

Deletka opened the 36-hole, two-day tourney Sunday in the lead with a 77 from the blue tees. At 7,300 yards, most of the scores of the first round looked like the temperature—high, not hot.

Playing from the whites on the final day, however, the field took advantage of the 400-yard bonus to challenge the leaders. Deletka's 75 was not the best round of the day but it was enough to hold off Mike May of Auburn, who finished in second at 153.

Section IV totaled 950 to top the other 10 competing sections by a wide 15 stroke margin. Maine Endwell High led that victory and also captured the team title with a winning 634 score. The medalist for both those winning efforts was Dan Marlowe who fired 77, 77 for a 154 total that won him part of third place among the individuals.

Yaun, the Liberty High senior who earlier in the week won the Ulster County Athletic League championship, won the state title at this same course two years ago as a sophomore. His experience plus his consistency placed him high on the list of favorites here, but a disastrous first round 86 knocked Yuan from contention.

"They had a senior prom the night before," explained Liberty coach George Hansen, "so that had to hurt a little." It may have hurt more than that since Yaun, well rested for the Monday round, finished the tourney with a 76-162.

It was Coleman junior A. J. Maneen who paced the Section IX entry to an eighth place 998. Maneen fired a consistent 81-80 for a 161 total that missed a tenth place playoff by three strokes.

Section II posted 965 for the runnerup spot in the intersectional competition. Section XI was one stroke back at 966 followed by Section III at 967, V at 978, VIII at 988, VI at 993, IX and I at 998, X at 1002 VII at 1051.

In the team race, Section II's Shaker High was second at 648, Auburn of Section III was third at 649, and Sayville of Section XI next at 665. Southwestern (VI) placed fourth with a 675 total to lead Section IX's Newburgh, 683, Section VIII's Kennedy, 687, Section X's St. Lawrence, 714, and Section VII's Plattsburgh, 758. Scarsdale, the Section I representative, withdrew from the tournament since its team members were caddying for the U.S. Open at Winged Foot.

Though the greens were excellent and the rest of the course in very good condition, there were some grumblings among the participants about the conduct of the tournament. Some coaches were miffed because they were forbidden to play in Saturday's practice round with their players; others complained of the afternoon start on Sunday which had the final groups finishing up after sunset.

Two complaints came from local coaches. Bill DuBois of Coleman reported that Maneen was nearly disqualified for missing his tee time. "They didn't give us times Sunday night, and when we got here this morning, A. J's group was on the tee. He just made it."

Jeff Buton of Onteora was disqualified. He listed his back nine scores in the wrong place on his scorecard and was not allowed to continue.

OCS coach Rick Barthel argued his cause unsuccessfully to the tournament directors. That left Bill Kennedy, with 97-86-183, as the only Indian in the tournament.

Punch Nearly Spoils Rangers' 'Derek Deal'

MONTREAL (AP)—The National Hockey League passed sweeping changes Monday to speed up its hockey games, then put the theory into practice at the intraleague draft.

It took just 25 minutes for the 16 teams to conduct the draft, but the Buffalo Sabres' mischievous General Manager Punch Imlach found time to disrupt the activity by drafting a player who had been taken earlier in the proceedings.

The California Seals opened the draft by selecting defenseman Jim Neilson from the New York Rangers. The Rangers, with the option of taking compensation in cash or player personnel from the Seals, selected big forward Walt McKechnie.

The deal had been reported coming last week. McKechnie would go to the Rangers, then be traded by New York to the Boston Bruins for center Derek Sanderson.

The surprise came when Imlach selected McKechnie. His claim was disallowed by NHL President Clarence Campbell.

"I was looking for the best hockey player available," said Imlach. "McKechnie was the best player available at the time."

Imlach was upset because since the Rangers had already lost Neilson, McKechnie would automatically be protected in the NHL's expansion draft Wednesday. In effect, the Rangers would then be protecting 19 players—one over the limit.

Otherwise, there wasn't much action. The New York Islanders selected Dave Fortier from the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, the Vancover Canucks took Jim Wiley from the Pittsburgh Penguins, the St. Louis Blues drafted Brian Ogilvie from the Chicago Black Hawks and the Detroit Red Wings drafted Ron Busniuk from the Buffalo Sabres.

All the other clubs passed their choices.

Changes were made to stiffen penalty times for various infractions, and in goalie equipment repairs and substitutions.

Linesmen will be instructed to drop the pucks for faceoffs even if one center—after prior warning—is not suitably prepared for the faceoff.

The league also said Boston Bruins defenseman Bobby Orr was the only unanimous selection to the NHL All-Star team. He was joined on the first team by Bruins center Phil Esposito, Boston right wing Ken Hodge, left wing Rick Martin of Buffalo, and defenseman Brad Park of the Rangers. Bernie Parent, the goaltender who led Philadelphia to the Stanley Cup, was the first team netminder.

Chicago Black Hawks goalie Tony Esposito led the second team, which included defensemen Bill White of Chicago and the now-retired Barry Ashbee of Philadelphia. Flyers center Bobby Clarke, right wing Mickey Redmond of Detroit and left wing Wayne Cashman of the Bruins.

Masterson Trophy To Henri Richard

MONTREAL (AP) — Henri Richard, 38-year-old captain of the Montreal Canadiens, today was named recipient of the Bill Masterton Memorial Trophy awarded annually by the Professional Hockey Writers' Association.

Richard just completed his 19th National Hockey League season and easily outdistanced forwards Ed Westfall of the New York Islanders and Rod Gilbert of the New York Rangers in voting for the trophy.

The trophy is given to "the National Hockey League player who best exemplifies the qualities of perseverance, sportsmanship, and dedication to hockey."

It also carries a $1,000 cash award.

Maniacs Still Undefeated

SAUGERTIES

The Maniacs, undefeated defending champions, exploded for five runs in the top of the seventh to edge the Flyers 6-4 in the SAA Goober Softball League opener. In the other game, Gorillas slammed 17 hits to crush the Super Dudes 14-2, behind the 5-hit pitching of Wayne Brocco, in a 5½-inning stopper.

Pat Harder hammered the first ever over-the-fence homer in Goober League history to climax the Maniacs' five-run rally. Karl Lezette won on a 7 hitter and contributed three singles. Tim Cole hit a double and single.

Lou Ferraro led Gorillas with four singles. Ernie Guerrerio had two singles and a double. Kit Swech, a single-triple and Steve Fiscaeletti homored.

Dr. Pugliese Seniors Champ

KINGSTON

Dr. William Pugliese, a 22-handicap player, carded a 36 hole net score of 130 to capture the 1974 Twaalfskill men's senior championship. The New Paltz doctor finished a stroke ahead of attorney Charles H. Gaffney, who posted 131 with 12 handicap.

Other low scorers were: Clarence (Dubby) Raichle, 9 handicap, 132; Dr. Douw Meyers (17) 132; William Merrill (16) 137; John S. Provenzano (11) 137; and William Livingston (16) 140.

Braves Will Trim Roster

KINGSTON

The Kingston Braves have a belated Hudson Valley Rookie Baseball League opener Friday night at Dietz Stadium against Newburgh Atmos at 8 p.m. But before that ceremonial, general Manager Fred J. David and Player-Manager Gary Dross must go through the annual pruning ceremonial Wednesday night.

The Braves have their final pre-season practice at 8 p.m. Wednesday, with the roster cut following after the workout.

The solid nucleus of the club is heavily flavored with former Ulster County Community College players, among them pitchers Tom Galo and Bob Marz.

Charlie Moore, one-time UCCC and Southampton College Pitcher-utility whiz, will return along with Jerry Hawkins, the team's most consistent hitter down though the years and George Wallach.

"We've had 22 new players working out to date," said Davi, "and we'll pick our starting lineup right after Wednesday night's workout." Davi said the workout would be held "rain or shine."

Kingston's earlier scheduled games with the New Paltz Falcons and Marlboro Jets the two new Ulster County entries, were postponed when the Rookie League schedule was revised.

"We're looking forward to a real rivalry with Marlboro and New Paltz," said Davi. "It will be good to some Ulster County fans in Dietz Stadium for some of our home games."

The Rookie League, the hardiest perennial of independent baseball leagues in the Mid-Hudson Valley region, has expanded to 12 teams. It is geared for players between high school, college and post-college up to 24 years of age. Teams may also carry a limited number of players over 24 years of age.

In addition to the Braves, New Paltz Falcons and Marlboro Jets, the league roster this season includes Minisink Valley Orbits, New Windsor Rockets, Newburgh Atoms, Wappingers Ions, Carmel Mets, Poughkeepsie Lasers, Monroe-Woodbury Crusaders, Newburgh Nuclears, Warwick Comets.

Poughkeepsie Lasers are the defending champions and long-time nemesis of the Braves, a fact readily admitted by Manager Dross and Davi. "If you want to win the Rookie League championship, you have to beat the Lasers," they chorused in unison."

Upcoming Braves dates:

Friday, June 14 — Newburgh Atoms, Dietz Stadium, 8 p.m.; Sunday, June 16 — at Wappingers Falls Ions; Tuesday, June 18 — Poughkeepsie Lasers at Dietz Stadium; Saturday, June 22, at Monroe-Woodbury Crusaders.

McWeeney Hurls Shutout

KINGSTON

Mike McWeeney limited Kingston Lions to one hit and struck out 11, as Turk Construction blanked the Lions 8-0 in the Junior Babe Ruth League. In another game, the Mets outslugged the Dodgers 12-4.

Jay Foust led Turk's with a single double combination. John Acker, Ken Merritt and Bob Jordan each had two hits.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You will want to withdraw a generous gesture you made after you have given the matter second thoughts.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It looks like you'll have to hold up the heavy end in a situation you're involved in with a friend, it's because conditions weren't spelled out properly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) in your dealings today try not to use self-glorifying techniques to call attention to yourself They won't produce the effect you desire.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A plan of some importance to you will be temporarily blocked by a condition you have no control over. Don't despair — wait it out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You may have to settle for less than you expected in something you've been hoping for. The values you anticipated are a bit too high.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your decisions will be swayed today by a strong personality. He insists upon having his way. However, he's not always right.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your way of accomplishing something will conflict with the boss's way. It's best that you comply as he will not modify his orders.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You'll be lucky with things as long as they are based on actuality. Situations still in the idea stage are another matter.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) To maintain peace on the home front be sure to let your mate in on all of today's plans. Springing a surprise spells problems.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Before you begin projects, be certain you think them through thoroughly else once you're involved you may wish you hadn't started.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You still tend to be too extravagant in material affairs. If you follow this course it will soon lighten your purse.

PICES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your self-interests are best served today if you're not overly impulsive. You'll need to retrace some steps if you jump the starting blocks too early.

Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

BIG LIPS: (Q.) I have very big lips. I try not to talk too much so that the kids won't notice them. But they do notice, and they all call me Fat Lips. Is there anything I can put on them to make them small?—Embarrassed Girl in Rhode Island.

(A.) You can't make your lips smaller. But, being a girl, you can make them LOOK smaller. Get lip rouge and learn to use it. First outline your lips smaller than they actually are with a darker lipstick. Then fill in the rest with a lighter shade. This will take practice.

Do NOT avoid talking naturally and enthusastically.

HEAVY-CHESTED: (Q.) I am a boy and I am very heavy in the chest. I hope you know what I mean. In the fall I will be in a school where I will have to wear a T-shirt in gym and take showers. I have tried dieting but nothing happened.

I know there are other boys like me, but they don't seem to mind. I feel queer. I hope you can help me—Self-Conscious in South Carolina.

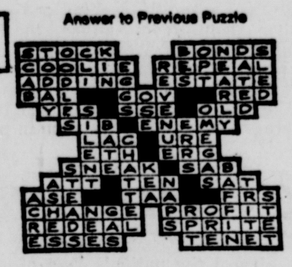

(A.) I know what you mean. I get letters from girls and boys with all sorts of bothersome physical characteristics including yours.

You can accept the way you are. You can tell yourself that you can walk and run and kick a football and see birds flying in a blue sky and work mathematical problems in your head and hold hands with a girl and look forward to a long and useful life, so what if you do have a fat chest!

Inability to see the forest because of all the trees is a common fault of many bridge players.

North wanted to know why South made such a light vulnerable opening bid. South wanted to know why North hadn't doubled four clubs and taken a sure profit. Neither one noticed that South had a cinch way to make his game.

West opened the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. The king was played from dummy. East ruffed and led back a heart whereupon South had to lose a finesse in that suit and one in diamonds to wind up one trick short.

All South had to do was not to play dummy's king of clubs when he did. If East ruffed the second club to lead a heart South would win: draw trumps and discard his queen of hearts on that nice club king.

If East didn't ruff, West's best play would be to lead a third club. East would ruff; South would overruff and draw trumps. Then he would lose the diamond finesse but would not have to take a heart finesse because dummy's fourth diamond would be a parking place for the heart queen.

Massive Welcome Planned

Egypt Gears for Nixon Visit

CAIRO (UPI) — Authorities handed out thousands of American flags and workmen gave Cairo a last-minute face-lifting today in an massive effort to give President Nixon the largest Egyptian welcome in modern time.

Government officials said the fanfare over Nixon's three-day visit begining Wednesday will outstrip even the mob scene that greeted the late Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev in 1964.

The enormous welcome ceremonies were planned in part to thank Nixon for the United States' crucial role in bringing about a troop pullback agreement between Egypt and Israel.

Authorities mustered more than 30,000 bodyguards from security forces and ordered 100,000 cheerleaders from the Arab Socialist Union to whip up enthusiam for Nixon with bands, banners, flags and street applause.

Lance-carrying horsemen in blue and white were readied to escort Nixon and his wife on the trip from Cairo airport to the 400-room Koubbeh Palace, used previously only by Egypt's kings and the late President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

American flags, including 3,000 the size of small blankets, fluttered in Cairo and Alexandria for the first time since 1967, when Cairo broke relations with the United States following the six-day Middle East war.

Workmen painted every rusty lamppost in the traffic-clogged capital of 5 million and along the nine-mile route out to the pyramids and the Sphinx, although Nixon is only to whirl over the highway in a helicopter.

Donkey carts hauling apricots and watermelons to market skittered aside as truckloads of workmen rushed to patch potholes with asphalt and cement filler.

Airport construction crews labored through the night on a VIP lounge where Nixon will be received after he walks down the welcoming red carpet.

Sadat ordered medals struck for Nixon, his wife and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who accompanied the President on the trip.

Egyptian officials said Nixon will be given a double welcome —a staid official reception led by President Anwar Sadat at the airport and a triumphal welcome along the way from the airport to the Koubbeh guest palace.

In Alexandria, the Nixons will stay at the 140-year-old Ras el Tin Palace built by Mohammed Aly, founder of the royal dynasty which ended with a military revolt in 1952.

Master of the camels Lamyi Ibrahim Ghoneim, 61, ordered two assistants to brush down a gentle camel named Canada Dry in case Nixon accepts his offer of a free ride.

Smooth Withdrawal

By United Press International

United Nations forces expanded a buffer zone between Israeli and Syrian front lines today, aiding a smooth disengagement between the two armies in the Golan Heights, military sources in Tel Aviv said.

The U.N. troops moved north from their base camp at the city of Quneitra to survey a sector of land Israel will abandon over the weekend, the sources said.

The Israelis are scheduled to hand over another section of land on Friday. That territory includes about a quarter of the land Israel captured from Syria in the 1973 Middle East War.

Two hours after the U.N. officials take possession of the abandoned land Friday, Syrian civilians and administrative personnel will start moving into the area. It will remain under the military control of the observer force.

A second stage of troop pullbacks was due to start June 18, and the final lines were to be completed by June 26. The plans were worked out in an agreement negotiated by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

In Tel Aviv, military sources said an Israeli pilot died under interrogation after being taken captive by the Syrians during the October War.

The Syrians told surviving cellmates of the pilot, Avi Lanier of Jerusalem, that he died of a "rupture" one month after being taken prisoner.

Lanier's body was one of 19 returned by the Syrians last week.

Italy's Left-Wing Cabinet Resigns

ROME (UPI) — President Giovanni Leone began an urgent search today for a new coalition cabinet to battle an economic emergency that provoked the collapse of Italy's three-month-old government.

Politicians warned that the grave crisis could touch off chaotic runway inflation and threatening the nation's democratic foundations.

Premier Mariano Rumor's center-left cabinet resigned Monday night after failing to reach an agreement on who should foot the bill for an all-out war against inflation —now booming ahead at 20 per cent a year.

The Rumor government, a coalition of Christian Democrats, Socialists and Social Democrats, took office March 15. It was Rumor's fifth cabinet and the 36th Italian government to fall in the 31 years since the overthrow of fascism.

"I consider this crisis more serious than all previous ones," Transport Minister Luigi Preti said. "This is not a mere government crisis. The true danger is that it may discredit and squelch the democratic institutions."

Leone asked Rumor to head a caretaker cabinet during negotiations for a new government. The Christian Democrats, with 265 seats in the 630-member chamber of deputies, is the largest party but not strong enough to govern alone.

Treasury Minister Emilio Colombo said the political crisis represented a blow to Italy's hopes for an international loan to salvage its economy.

There have been reports that Italy was urgently seeking a $1 billion loan from either the United States or West Germany to avert an official devaluation of the lira.

The nation's trade deficit has averaged $1 billion a month, reflecting huge increases in the cost of imported oil.

The Socialists, second largest party in the ruling coalition, have suggested they would like to govern with the support of Italy's Communist party, the largest in the West. The Communists say they would only support a government on their own terms.

The Socialists accused Rumor's Christian Democrats credit and tax squeeze that would place the burden on the working man in the form of unemployment and decreasing purchasing power.

France Preparing Nuclear Blast

PARIS (UPI) — French ships and warplanes fanned out around a South Pacific testing ground today and government officials said France's first nuclear blast in the atmosphere this year may come as early as this week.

A special communique banned all civilian shipping and airline flights from a vast area over the testing ground at Muruora atoll, 500 miles southeast of the island of Tahiti.

French navy and air force units took up positions around the tiny South Pacific atoll, guarding against possible moves to send protest ships into the region to halt the blasts.

Australia and New Zealand repeated Monday strong compliants against the French tests. Both nations sent ships into the French zone last year.

Australian Foreign Minister Don Willesee said his goverment "deplores the prospect of further French atmospheric nuclear tests in the Pacific this year."

French officials said the purpose of the tests was to perfect warheads for medium-range missiles to be based in underground silos in France and aboard the nation's fleet of nuclear-powered submarines.

President Valery Giscard d'Estaing, in his first major policy decision since his election May 19, gave the Pacific command a go ahead for the controversial nuclear tests.

But in an apparent effort to silence domestic and foreign critics of the tests Giscard d'Estaing announced that all future tests as of 1975 will be held underground.

He also cut one test from the planned series of explosions at Mururoa and ordered an overall cut in government spending on atomic testing.

Jean-Jacques Servan-Schreiber, dismissed Sunday as Minister for Home Reforms because of his outspoken criticism of the tests, called a news conference today to explain his stand.

Some officials said privately that France, after completing its tests, may sign a 1963 ban on atmospheric tests that was sponsored by the United States and the Soviet Union. France and China are the only major nations not a party to the agreement.

Senate Views Missile Warheads

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate held a rare secret session Monday to see classified Pentagon documents and then voted to allow the military to develop highly accurate "silo killer" missiles.

Today the Senate planned to take up two controversial liberal amendments to the military's $21.8 billion weapons bill. One would reduce the ceiling on military aid to South Vietnam from $900 million to $750 million and the other would set an overall ceiling on military spending.

Sen. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., chairman of the armed services research subcommittee, called for the closed session Monday.

He gave each senator a chart, stamped "secret" on the top and bottom margins, that gave the official Air Force details on the accuracy and power of existing U.S. missile warheads, Senate sources said.

Various private groups have estimated that a Minuteman warhead already is accurate to within 1,500 feet, and Senate sources indicated the Air Force statistics actually showed even greater accuracy.

To dramatize the current accuracy, the sources said McIntyre told senators what buildings within their sight on Capitol Hill would be hit by even an inaccurate missile.

McIntyre lost on a 48-37 vote.

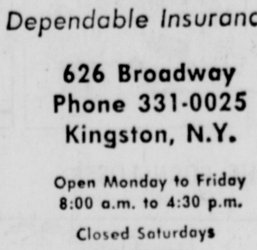

In five days of debate so far on the weapons bill, the Senate has beaten back every major liberal assault, and no weapons program has been deleted or cut.

The only notable changes made were to prohibit testing poisons on dogs, forbid the Navy from using the Puerto Rican island of Culebra as a bombing range after 1975 and prevent the Air Force from test firing Minuteman missiles over the Northwest.

McIntyre has argued that the only gain from more accurate warheads would be to allow the United States to knock out a Soviet silo with one missile instead of the three currently thought necessary.

He said such a threat to the Soviet missile force would actually make nuclear war more likely. "It will put a hairtrigger on a nuclear war . . . it might motivate the Soviets to strike first in a period of international tension."

Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger has said neither side can gain a disarming first strike capability so long as both sides have untouchable submarine missiles. He proposed the new warheads to give the President "more options" in times of tension.
